WAITING FOR THAT CALL—Mrs. C. E. Allen, of 753 Myrtle street, N. E., is waiting for a weekly call from her son, Lt. Sammy Allen, at Kelly Field, Texas. The jar in Mrs. Allen's hand is the one she keeps on her cafe counter for patrons' contributions to the HEROES' PHONE CALLS Fund. She plans to tell Sammy about her personal drive for donations to pay for phone calls that wounded veterans will make to their loved ones far away.

Kindness Rings in Heart Waiting for Son's Call

By MARY KEY WYNNE.

She knows what it will mean. She is a mother with a boy in the service.

A 60-year-old woman sat in her cafe waiting for Sammy, her son, to call from Kelly Field, Texas. Sammy wasn't ill, and he wasn't overcast, but his weekly call made the days without him more bearable.

As the woman sat by a pay-able to HEROES' PHONE CALLS. An estimated $3 will pay for one call—account for as many calls as you can.

"It sure did touch me when I read that piece," she said, "because I knew how much my call was going to mean to me, and I knew how much a call from a wounded son would mean to some other mother."

Right then, Mrs. C. E. Allen, of 753 Myrtle street, N. E., got a fruit jar from the kitchen and cut a hole in the top. In her home-made bank she put some money to start her project on its way. She placed the container on the front counter in the cafe so that her customers might contribute to the heroes' phone calls.

$11 IN TWO DAYS
Mrs. Allen sent $11 to The Constitution yesterday. It was her collection for two days.

She's going to keep that jar in her restaurant for the duration. "And I'm going to put all I can in it myself," she declared.

Mrs. Allen had waited on about 200 patrons by early afternoon, but she wasn't too tired or too busy to remind each customer of her little jar on the counter.

"All the folks who come here are mighty sweet about dropping some change in," the mother said. "I really think more of that jar than I do of what goes in my cash register. That doesn't sound like the truth, but it is."

Here is one woman who is doing all she can. She works at least 14 hours every day. She isn't too young either. But, the best that she has goes into the HEROES' PHONE CALLS Fund.

Where is your contribution? Have you made it yet? Surely you won't deny a returned wounded serviceman the privilege of calling his mother. Surely you haven't forgotten that he braved the fire of shells, the burst of bombs, and the treachery of the enemy, just to keep you safe. Would you overlook the little things that will make his life in the hospital brighter?

Plunge 15 Miles After Crossing Vistula Barrier

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 4.—(AP) Red army troops shattered the Axis Vistula river line in Poland yesterday, smashing 15 miles beyond that last natural defense barrier short of the "holy soil" of Germany in a broad flow of men and tanks that flanked burning Warsaw and sped toward German Silesia, only 100 miles away.

The Vistula, which a desperate enemy had attempted to hold with reinforcements sent from central German reservoirs, was crossed 110 miles south of besieged Warsaw on a front nearly 19 miles wide between Koprzywnica and Polaniec.

German broadcasts also said that another strong bridgehead was established on the west bank near Warka, only 30 miles south-east of Warsaw, where Polish patriots were fighting the Germans in the streets, but Moscow did not confirm that enemy announcement.

60 MILES OF KRAKOW

The west bank towns of Koprzywnica and Polaniec fell to the Russians, a Moscow communique said, along with Staszow, 15 miles west of the swift-flowing Vistula. By seizing Polaniec the Russians were only 60 miles northeast of Krakow, Poland's fifth largest city. With the capture of Staszow they were only 30 miles southeast of the German stronghold of Kielce.

A midnight Soviet bulletin said infantrymen first crossed the Vistula on pontoons and rafts, followed by tank forces. In heavy fighting beyond the river amid strong fortifications the Russians said they killed 3,000 Germans and captured 500.

More than 50 localities fell in this swift Russian strike which apparently was delivered by the upper wing of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army. The Moscow bulletin did not mention the Warsaw area, where Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian armies are engaged in a bitter fight with the Germans just east of the city.

NAZIS CALL HELP

Russian troops were reported even nearer ancient German soil in western Lithuania, attacking toward East Prussia on a broad front. Moscow dispatches said these units were only three miles from East Prussia, fighting near Virbalis and Wiazany and preparing to leap the border after an intensive shelling of Nazi concentrations across the border. The Soviet bulletin said 200 more localities had been taken by the Russians west and northwest of Kaunas, fallen former Lithuanian capital.

A Soviet midnight communique said the Germans were throwing in huge forces of planes in an attempt to stem the Russian advance. Forty-seven of these were shot down during the day, Moscow said, and large numbers wrecked on the ground.

A total of 6,400 Germans were declared to have been killed on all fronts during the day, bringing enemy losses in three days to more than 30,000 on the basis of Moscow accounts.

Four New Skyscrapers For Postwar Gotham

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Four new skyscrapers are planned as postwar construction here at an estimated cost of more than $20,000,000. Plans filed at the city housing department yesterday called for structures ranging between 33 and 50 stories in midtown and downtown Manhattan.

Fear Mongoose on the Loose— Snake-Killer Can't Enter U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The four freedoms do not apply to a mongoose, government authorities made clear today, exhibiting concern over the kinds of pets that returning servicemen are trying to bring home.

Those pets have ranged from coatimundis, which have faces like foxes and tails like raccoons, to spotted wildcats, which are self-explanatory. This indulgent republic, under certain conditions, will tolerate the importation of an ocelot or even a kinkajou, but it draws the line at mongooses.

Twice in the past year the government has sentenced mongooses to the lethal chamber for illegal immigration. The Lacey act of May 25, 1900, forbids entry of the scrappy, ferret-like Indian mammal as a menace to the agricultural and horticultural interests of the United States.

Perhaps, speculated Frederick C. Lincoln, senior biologist of the Fish and Wildlife Service, confound he could make an easier living stealing eggs from ground-nesting birds. He went his way, the snakes theirs.

The Lacey act also forbids the importation of flying foxes, fruit bats and English sparrows and starlings.

By later regulations, the Secretary of Agriculture has barred the importation of sky-larks, house mice, rats and European bullfinches, hares and rabbits. Even the Indian house mouse, which can outlast a parrot, was banned, possibly on the theory there's too much talk in this country already.

Lincoln said it is probable that the bulk of the soldiers' pets are monkeys and parrots. However, having a working knowledge of the kind of animals with which a G. I. might strike up an acquaintanceship in the African or South American jungles, he's trying not to think too much about the pets which may be slipping in on fast-flying transport planes.

U. S. In Charge, Trolley Strike Ended by Vote

By The Associated Press.

Philadelphia Transportation Company workers whose three-day walkout has slashed war production voted last night, a few hours after the federal government seized the system, to obey an Army appeal that they return to work this morning at 5 o'clock.

The workers' decision was announced by James McMenamin, chairman of their "general emergency committee," following a mass meeting at a car barn already taken over by the Army.

Earlier, the more than 4,000 workers present cheered when Army officers posted a notice at the barn announcing the seizure, and saluted as the flag of the United States was raised over the premises.

The work stoppage kept 6,000 employees idle and immobilized every trolley, bus, subway and elevated train in Philadelphia, classed by the War Manpower Commission as the nation's second war production center.

Upgrading of eight Negro employees precipitated the walkout. McMenamin told last night's mass meeting that "the government is taking over the property as of today and there are no Negro objections."

Hot and Humid Weather, Maybe 92, Due to Encore

There will be a return of hot and humid weather today, according to A. J. Knarr, forecaster at the municipal airport. The temperature may reach a high of 92 degrees. The official preview reads: "Considerable cloudiness, humid and moderately hot, with scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers."

The high temperature yesterday was 88 degrees at 4 p. m., and the low was 70 at 6 a. m.

Banks Plan Small Business Aid By Adequate Long-Term Loans

By RALPH MCGILL.

Atlanta's Clearing House banks, acting within a national plan, yesterday announced what amounts to a sensational, and yet completely sound, contribution to the future prosperity and progress of the city and state by long-term and adequate credit to small business.

The meeting was preliminary to a state-wide convocation of banks to apply the same credit principle.

The plan amounts to a revolutionary change in the lending business of the banks. It is described as lifting it above the level of interbank competition, providing that once again competent men, and firms, with character, ability and a constructive idea, will get adequate credit and terms long enough to do the job.

It is a recognition by the banks of the nation that there is such a need and that private banks can meet it as well, or better, than government aid.

If adopted nationally, as the American Bankers' Association Small Business Credit Commission hopes, and insists it must, the plan will do a big part of the job of meeting the economic shock of peace by providing a part of the machinery of transition.

Atlanta banks met Wednesday to hear the report by H. Lane Young, president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, who is Georgia's representative on the national bankers' commission. President Young attended the meeting with his associate, Mills B. Lane Jr.

A committee was authorized to be appointed by Robert W. Strickland, of the Trust Company of Georgia, and president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association.

tion. The Atlanta banks, recognizing the need for a radical change in lending policy to meet the free enterprise needs of the present and future, enthusiastically pledged unqualified co-operation.

The idea of extending credit above the level of interbank competition is to be accomplished, says the report, "by the closest union and concert of action between banks of every class, from the least to the greatest."

In cases where the city bank can assist its rural correspondent, with credit surveys and plans to accommodate an unusual or difficult application for credit, "this will be done without expectation of compensation or profit by the city bank."

If desirable because of the size of the loan, the city bank will, on request, participate. In cases of unusually large loans credit pools, spreading the loan through several banks, will be established.

This statement by the Atlanta banks is the credit policy adopted by the Postwar Small Business Credit Commission of the American Bankers' Association and behind it are mobilized the nation's 15,000 member banks.

Bulgars Accept Allied Terms As Preliminary to Surrender

By PAT FRANK.

(Copyright, 1944, for The Constitution.)

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 3.—(ONA)—Bulgaria has agreed to terms preliminary to her surrender to the Allies, it was reliably learned here today.

Marking the first crack in Hitler's grip on the Balkan satellites following Turkey's rupture with Germany, the Bulgars have agreed to:

(1) Withdrawal of all Bulgarian forces from Greece and Yugoslavia, and arming of Partisans who have hitherto been interned.

(2) Withdrawal within the pre-1939 frontiers of Bulgaria.

(3) Fixing of Bulgarian frontiers and all Balkan borders after the war on the basis of economic factors.

(4) Restoration of full rights to Jews and other disenfranchised citizens.

(5) Clearing Germans out of all posts of civil authority.

In addition to these preliminary terms, it is understood that Russia expects the Bulgarians to collaborate in driving all German troops out of the country. It is reliably reported here in this connection that the Bulgars have already succeeded in ousting the Germans from the Black sea ports of Varna and Burgas, and have halted all anti-Jewish measures.

The negotiations for the pre-surrender terms were conducted by British and American representatives through formal neutral channels, it is reliably reported. Simultaneously Russia backed the Allied terms through its Sofia diplomats.

The negotiations do not mean abandonment of the unconditional surrender policy, but show that this policy is sufficiently elastic to provide fair and decent terms to those countries ready to "work their passage home."

Undoubtedly other agreements will be reached between Turkey and Bulgaria and the Allies, Turkey and Bulgaria, which will have a terrific impact on Romania and Hungary.

The negotiations for the pre-

Tavern Closed For 30 Days

Suspension of its beer and wine license for 30 days and probation for the remainder of the current licensing period was the punishment meted out yesterday to the Lounge Tavern at 79 Forsyth street, N. W., as the result of charges brought against it by Marvin Allison, state director of the Georgia Committee of the Brewing Industry Foundation.

The action was announced by State Revenue Commissioner J. Eugene Cook, who concurred in the findings of a three-man board composed of revenue department officials, before which the case was heard last Monday. It also was ordered that better lighting be provided in a sideroom operated in the place.

Affidavits by the committee's field representative and by state revenue agents, charging that the operator of the Lounge and his employees sold beer and wine to intoxicated persons, and that unescorted women were allowed to enter the place and to make dates with servicemen who frequent the establishment, were presented by State Director Allison, and direct testimony was given by Police Chief Hornsby, Superintendent of Detectives McKibben, Lt. E. L. Hilderbrand, head of the city's vice squad; City Detective Corley, and two city policemen.

The defense was represented by John H. Bowen, owner of the establishment, and Charlie Vocals and his wife, operators. Bowen testified he visited the tavern only seldom and was not familiar with its operating methods, but the Vocals denied all charges against the place.

U. S. Smashing Ahead on Guam

By The Associated Press.
Increasing numbers of Japanese civilians sought refuge behind American lines on Guam as U. S. soldiers shoved bitterly resisting Japanese back two miles along the entire front, Adm. Nimitz announced last night.

Topping corresponding Allied gains on the continent was a Chinese push into the walled city of Tanchung, Japanese headquarters blocking reopening of a land supply route to China.

Less than 80 square miles of Guam, on the sea supply line to the China coast, still remains to be regained by U. S. troops. The last barrier ridge of mountains apparently had been taken.

Carrier planes, skimming the heavily wooded northern plateau, raked the strong points of the 10,000 defending Japanese soldiers with rockets and bombs.

The southern two-thirds of Guam, already taken by the Americans, includes every important major objective known on the island—Apra harbor, two airfields and the capital town of Agaña.

Counting Saipan and Tinian, American forces in less than two months have seized seven airports and two potential advanced naval stations in the southern Marianas islands from which Japan's inner defense line can be further breached.

Nimitz reported that the American flag has been raised formally over Tinian island, 125 miles north of Guam. Scattered remnants of the garrison of that conquered island were being flushed out of caves and dugouts by Marines.

Enemy dead on the island were estimated officially at 5,000. An attack on Ponape, in the Caroline islands, and neutralizing raids in the Marshall islands also were reported.

Six Japanese have been killed in the Marianas campaign, the official tally is 33.

WOMAN GUEST'S SMILE FLASHES STOLEN TOOTH, HOSTESS SAYS

By KEELER MCCARTNEY.
Crowns have fallen, or even been discarded, but not many have disappeared and turned up cemented to someone else's head to pose a problem city detectives find it hard to solve.

The Case of the Gold Tooth was the one being pondered yesterday by City Detectives J. M. Austin and Patrick Campbell.

It was dumped into their laps by Bertha McGhee, a Negro woman of 145 Chestnut avenue, N. E. Bertha told the detectives that a gold tooth that had been her pride and joy and the source of her prestige recently loosened and came out.

She then carefully put it away in her coin purse pending a visit to a dentist.

Later, she told detectives, an acquaintance, a Negro girl, appealed to her for a few nights' lodging. She consented to take her in. The girl left after a few days, and then Bertha discovered that her gold crown had disappeared.

She then turned detective and located her erstwhile lodger on Green street.

"How is you, honey?" she asked diplomatically. The girl smiled, revealing, Bertha claims, a gold crown resembling closely Bertha's missing pride and joy.

The detectives admit Bertha has a case, but there being no dentist in the police department, they are in a quandary as to what action to take.

OGLETHORPE, Ga., Aug. 3.—The Rev. B. A. Pafford, pastor of the Montezuma Methodist church, spoke on the "Value of the Soil" at a meeting of the Macon County Farm Bureau in Oglethorpe Tuesday night.

MacArthur's infantrymen are widening their hold on the extreme western end of New Guinea, 600 miles south of the Philippines, and closing a huge vise on some 45,000 enemy troops on the north central coast.

Other Americans edged deeper into the fiercely defended Myitkyna, once a powerful enemy base in north Burma.

Nipponese fleeing from eastern India abandoned great quantities of explosives and many of their own dead. On one route of retreat to Burma, their machinegunners slowed up pursuing British troops while on another the Japanese lost themselves in the jungle.

A demand for completely stripping Japan of her overseas possessions was reiterated by Dr. H. H. Kung, vice premier of China. He said Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescadores Islands, near Formosa, must be returned to China.

More Italians Leave Atlanta for 'GI' Posts

Another contingent of Italian Service Units, consisting of several companies of former Italian prisoners of war who volunteered for Army service, have left Atlanta Ordnance Depot, Col. R. L. Gaugler, commander of the depot, announced.

The units were sent to Army posts throughout the country to begin the automotive maintenance work for which they have received 13 weeks' intensive training at the depot. Their only compensation is the regular pay prisoners of war receive for working, and a little additional freedom.

Ingot Surplus Causes Aluminum Output Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(P)—A new cutback in aluminum production, involving the closure of two plants and curtailment of a third, tonight followed a War Production Board announcement that 48 per cent of the entire 1944 armament program was completed at midyear.

'Wage Politics' Arouses Mayor

Asserting that of late employees have complained "that there is more politics than ever in the matter of salary increases," Mayor Hartsfield warned the city personnel board that "it will eventually break down the entire civil service system."

In a letter to Aubrey Milam, chairman of the personnel group, copies of which were sent to James P. Allen and William Kemp, members, Hartsfield said, "I feel I ought to write you frankly." He said he appreciated "the very fine work you gentlemen are doing on the personnel board, and I know that yours is a thankless task in the cause of good government, and I, for one, appreciate your services."

"However, I do ask that you examine most carefully these proposed changes and what is back of each and every one of them," the mayor added.

Irked by the mayor's implied criticism of the board, the members in session yesterday instructed Stafford W. Graydon, personnel director, to prepare a letter in answer, listing the changes made, and the "number of times city council has passed and the mayor has signed actions disapproved by us."

Milam will sign the letter, and Graydon will prepare a list of reclassifications approved "for or cause" by the board and those which have been disapproved.

"We have never approved a reclassification just to get an employee an increase in salary," Milam said. He and Allen have been members of the board since it was established, six years ago.

"It has been our policy to recommend only those reclassification changes which entail a change of duties," Kemp added. "We have turned down numerous requests for changes on the grounds that they were proposed merely to get more compensation for the employee. The trouble is that the mayor seldom sees the ones we turn down."

Allen concurred in the attitude as expressed by Milam and Kemp, and added it might be a good idea to invite the mayor into a conference with members of the board to "thrash the whole business out."

The board also sustained Frank Wilson, Grady superintendent, in dismissing Miss Johnnie Morris, former director of the medical library at Grady, after a lengthy hearing.

Train Fare Suit Lost by States

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3.—(P)—Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama today lost their fight in federal court against boosting intrastate railroad passenger fares up to interstate levels as ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission—an increase which the states contended would cost travelers an extra $2,000,000 a year.

A three-judge court in an unanimous opinion dismissed the states' complaints and refused to enjoin ICC, holding the increase order valid and not subject to federal court review.

The increase, which the states had contended was a violation of their right to set their own rates within their borders, is effective August 15 by ICC order. It was to have taken effect on or before July 1 but was stayed to allow the court test.

The order provides for an increase from 1.65 to 2.2 cents a mile for one-way tickets and from 1.485 to 1.98 cents a mile for round-trip tickets.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filaments which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or uneasy passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause urticaria, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Serious Drouth Broken By Heavy Rains in East

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(P)—The Weather Bureau said today heavy rains of the past 36 hours had broken a serious drouth in a wide eastern coastal belt extending from Virginia into eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The storm today had moved into eastern New York and lower New England, sections still needing moisture, and forecasters expressed hope that the rain in that area would be sufficient to relieve conditions there.

Farm officials said the eastern rain arrived in time to save important truck crops and corn from serious damage. Yields, however, will not be as high as if it had fallen a week earlier.

Arnall Okays Pay Hikes For University System

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

Funds to raise salaries of University System of Georgia faculty members, and to bring the pay scale more in line with those of other southeastern state institutions, have been approved by Gov. Arnall and the Board of Regents.

Two Georgians Are Decorated

Two Georgians have received the Silver Star for "gallantry in action," according to information just released by the War Department.

Lt. Col. Sam F. Lambert, husband of Mrs. Martha Newman Lambert, of 433 Sycamore drive, Decatur, won the award for service rendered last April 23 and 24. The citation accompanying the award which was made before Col. Lambert was promoted to his present rank reads:

"Major Lambert, displaying outstanding initiative and technical skill, organized and supervised excellent communications during the operation. He personally made reconnaissance into forward areas under enemy fire prior to the movement of important installations. This demonstration of gallant achievement is outstanding."

The son of Mrs. B. Lambert, of Brookhaven, Lt. Col. Lambert was formerly an engineer for the Georgia Power Company. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech, where he received his commission in the reserves. He went into active duty in March, 1941.

Cpl. James E. Spell, a farmer of Hazlehurst, earned the Silver Star for gallantry in action with a tank battalion under Gen. Mark W. Clark in Italy.

Defying death by remaining at his weapon, he single-handedly destroyed two enemy machinegun nests and forced a German tank to withdraw from action. Enemy shells, both small arms and mortars, were bursting within five feet of Cpl. Spell when he let loose with a barrage of fire from his 81-mm. mortar.

Mrs. Ellis Takes Over U. Publicity Work

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Bobby Ellis, husband of Herman A. Ellis, assistant accounting professor, has taken over public relations work at the University of Georgia under direction of the president's office.

Formerly public relations secretary, Mrs. Ellis succeeds Alumni Secretary Bill Crane, who is now devoting his full time to alumni activities.

The regents set up $300,000 for pay raises shortly after the governor approved an increase in their new annual budget yesterday.

The new budget is approximately $197,000 greater than the budget for the past fiscal year, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. said. Approved for the 1944-45 fiscal year is $2,355,000, as compared with $2,158,000 last year.

Just how many teachers in the various branches of the University System will be granted raises will be determined at an early meeting of heads of the institutions. The college presidents will meet and work out these details before the regents meet August 31.

Attending yesterday's meeting was the finance committee of the regents, the chairman of the committee on education, the chairman of the committee on agriculture, the chancellor and the chairman of the board. They reviewed the financial situation of the University System and made requests of the Governor for budgetary approval.

"Based on this review and the agreed allotments," said a statement issued by the regents' office after the meeting, "it was announced that funds would be available for small adjustments in the salary schedules in the institutions as a start toward bringing them into line with other southeastern state institutions."

The salary scale adjustment for the University System follows the Governor's recent approval of two pay "bonuses" for teachers in Georgia's common school system. As he announced last month plans for operating the common schools on an 11-month basis next year, Governor Arnall asked the co-operation of all departments to permit the state to provide some help for the University System.

Camp Cheonda Closes; Attendance Was 281

During the five-week camp, five boys reached Eagle rank and 53 Scouts and Scouters were tapped as candidates for the Order of the Arrow, honor campers' society. Scout masters who attended camp and served on the senior staff included W. H. Matthews, Bob Carter, John McKinney, Ford Boston, I. L. Knight, W. O. Sexton, Charles Fruit, F. F. Dowis and Roy Parr. The junior staff, composed of boys selected for skill in certain fields, included Luke Smith, Abit Massey, Paul Brown, G. L. Huff, Billy Smith, Bobby Mowbray, Edwin Patterson, Gene Savage, Walter Byrd, Dan May, Richard Felker, Henry Smith, Price Gittinger and Bill Simpson.

BORA BORA GIRL—When Pvt. Thomas E. Swann sent his little girl, Nancy, a miniature version of what the Bora Bora islanders consider the classiest in grass skirts, Nancy took to the idea with vim and vigor. Her mother, the former Anne McGrew, also received a grass skirt.

'Pop' Sends 13-Month-Old Tot Grass Skirt From Pacific Isle

By JANE MORGAN.

Nancy Swann slipped her 13-month-old figure into a miniature version of what the Bora Bora islanders deem the classiest in grass skirts, and smiled obligingly for the camera. . . all in accordance with delayed instructions from her daddy, Pvt. Thomas E. Swann, 23, stationed on Bora Bora Island, in the southwest Pacific.

"When you get this grass skirt," wrote Pvt. Swann to his wife, the former Miss Anne McGrew, of 119 McClelland avenue, East Point, "call The Constitution and tell them I want a picture of my baby and then please send the picture to me."

The letter of instruction arrived before the grass skirt, which turned out to be two—one for Nancy and a larger version for her mother.

Finally, after a delay of five months, the long-awaited package emerged from the red tape and confusion of censorship and wartime mailing service, and the genial postman who made the delivery caught the excitement of the occasion and hung around for the opening.

"Prettiest grass skirts I ever delivered," was the parting verdict of the postman as he reluctantly resumed his duties.

Nancy, whom her father has not seen since she was 10 days old, does not quite measure up to the waistline imagined by her daddy, but a safety pin at a strategic point remedied the situation and enabled Nancy to bend over and acquire a firmer grip on the shredded grass which she gleefully contemplated stretching and chewing as soon as posing for the camera and other formalities had been dispensed with.

Mrs. Swann intends to warn her husband that the grass skirts are highly expendable when placed in the vicinity of Nancy.

Eleven Accused In Bond Fraud

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fraud involving refunding of Florida city and county bonds with a par value of $170,000,000 was charged in two federal grand jury indictments returned today.

Roy E. Crummer, Winter Park, Fla., and Wichita, Kan., president and director of R. E. Crummer and Company of Chicago, was named principal defendant in both true bills. The Crummer firm and ten other officers and employees were indicted.

The indictments alleged mail fraud and violations of the securities and exchange act between 1931 and 1943 in refunding bonds issued by Citrus county, Florida, and Panama City, Fla.

The true bill based on the Panama City operations accused Crummer and other defendants with including holders of the city's bonds to exchange them for refunding bonds bearing lower interest rates and converting to their own use cash and bonds collected. Banks and schools in Kansas were defrauded, the bill charges.

The second indictment, dealing with Citrus county operations, charged the defendants obtained large blocks of a 1933 bond issue in 1940 by representing that they had been called for payment and then, instead of exchanging the old for new bonds, sold the refunding issue at higher rates than allowed holders of the original issue. The operations totaled $1,243,000, it said.

Others indicted with Crummer included Hemen A. Lassiter, Orlando, Fla.; Courtney S. Turner, Winter Park, Fla.; and Chicago, and Harry A. Taylor, of Chicago.

Ship Honoring Publisher Launched at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Named for Alexander R. Shephard, Washington, D. C., publisher who died in 1902, the 61st Liberty ship completed at the Southeastern Shipbuilding Yards was launched here today.

Mrs. Isabell Katherine Chadwick, of Washington, sister of Secretary A. J. Williams, of the Maritime Commission, was sponsor. Shephard, born in Washington in 1835, joined Crosby S. Noyes and others in 1867 in purchasing the Evening Star, which he later owned outright. In 1873, he was appointed Governor of Washington by President Grant.

Work on Constitution Is Nearing Its Finish

Calling the constitution redrafters into session for the week of August 14, Gov. Arnall was of the belief the commission can complete all but the final touches on the revised constitution during that week. That will leave only a final revision of the document before submitting it to the legislature next January.

The governor invited members of the general assembly to sit in on commission meetings if they so desire.

Seven-Man Farm Plan Gains Georgians' Favor

By PAUL WARWICK.

The seven-man corporation plan for enriching the now-poor soil on Georgia farms is still growing—in Atlanta at least—and apparently will continue to spread, as new groups announce their willingness to participate and other septets are heard to be in process of formation.

Meanwhile, approximately 400 missionaries have gone back to other home towns in Georgia to spread the gospel—this out-of-town number representing about half of the overflow attendance at the big meeting Wednesday. They heard here an exposition of the program by which 100 farms in the state, each bought by seven men contributing equally to a $7,000 capitalization, would enter into a three-year regime of scientific land improvement.

And meanwhile also, Cason J. Callaway, proponent of the plan, expressed himself as highly gratified at the response which greeted his initial explanation of the plan to this large audience of Georgia leaders.

Before leaving yesterday for his own home on Blue Springs Farm, in Harris county, he again emphasized his belief that the program will be a solution—by precept and example—of the problem of turning Georgia's average and unproductive acres into rich land which will enable Georgia farms to compete with other sections in productivity.

"I was confident in the beginning that patriotic Georgia citizens would enter into the program with enthusiasm," he said, "and I must say now that my confidence is greater than ever, judging from the enthusiastic willingness which so many have shown."

Seven groups—six Atlanta civic clubs and one other independent group—had already announced organization of their $7,000 corporations. Another unit in process of formation already numbered James D. Robinson, L. W. (Chip) Robert, Jackson P. Dick, Freeman Strickland and Baxter Maddox on its directorate—with a sixth yet to be named—and the seventh to be the man chosen to manage the affairs of the farm and supervise its successful operation.

All Atlanta groups were looking forward to a trip next Thursday to Blue Springs Farm, the 28,000-acre personal experiment station and practical farm operated by Callaway.

He has invited the Atlanta contingent, in mass, to visit him on

Truman Quits Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Sen. Truman gave up today the chairmanship of the Senate War Investigating Committee in order to free himself for a vigorous campaign as President Roosevelt's fourth-term running mate. Sen. James M. Mead (D., N. Y.) is expected to be elected his successor tomorrow.

Democrats and Republicans alike sought to persuade Truman to continue as head of the committee over which he has presided for three and a half years, but he told them "it wouldn't be fair."

"Anything I might say or do as a member of the committee would be construed as political," he said. In the end, they agreed to respect his wishes. They offered the chairmanship to Sen. Connally (D., Tex.), but he had to decline because of his heavy duties as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Bottoms Up Foiled Nazis Finally Use Maps of Britain

This was reported by a high-ranking officer at supreme headquarters today who displayed a captured German war map of St. Lo which the Nazis, short of paper and long since discouraged in the matter of invading Britain, had printed on the back of a map covering a section of England.

Survey of City Police System Proposed by Atlanta Alderman

Modernized and streamlined FBI methods may replace what Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, police committee member, terms antiquated law enforcement methods of the Atlanta police department. Gilliam last night proposed that the committee urge J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, or the International Association of Police Chiefs to make an overall survey of Atlanta police methods and facilities and to make whatever recommendations the surveying agency deems advisable to bring the department up to date.

The committee deferred action on the proposal until the August 17 session, but sent to city council a favorably recommended ordinance to tighten up on regulations regarding the pawing of articles. "I think we have a good police department, better than most," Gilliam told his colleagues on the committee, "but I believe we can have a better one. I think we are suffering from antiquated methods and many anachronisms."

"We are like an independent country store trying to compete with a modern chain store. Our department just grew up. I think a survey as suggested, which I am sure we can get without any cost to the city, would help the department, would help the people and might even help us. Everybody would be helped."

Gilliam had the immediate support of Alderman Lester Brewer and Councilman John T. Marler, but on suggestion of Councilman Cecil W. Hester and J. Allen Couch definite action was postponed temporarily. Gilliam announced, however, he will press for action at the committee's next meeting.

The new ordinance affecting pawing of articles will require a typewritten, full description of any article pawned, but a clause requiring the thumbprint of the person offering the pawn was stricken because committee mem-

Warship Named For Atlantan

The U. S. S. Alfred A. Cunningham, latest of the Navy's 2,000-ton superdestroyers, and named for a native of Atlanta known as the father of marine aviation, went down the launching ways at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Staten Island yards last night, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The heavyweight destroyer was sponsored by Mrs. Alfred S. Cunningham, of Alexandria, Va., widow of Lt. Col. Cunningham, the Marine Corps' first pilot and commanding officer of the First Marine Aircraft Combat group, for whom the ship was named.

Col. Cunningham, son of the late Judge and Mrs. John D. Cunningham and brother of Mrs. W. A. Graham, of 1233 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., made his first solo flight in 1912 after less than three hours of actual flight training and later became the first pilot to be catapulted from a moving warship. He died in 1939 at the age of 57.

Tribute to the veteran pilot was paid on behalf of the Marine Corps by Lt. Tyrone Power, famous movie star, and Col. Christian F. Schilt and Richard C. Mangrum.

The destroyer was the 85th launched by the Bethlehem shipbuilding division since the start of the war.

Robot Platforms Hit By British Heavies

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 4.—(P)—Powerful Allied air fleets totaling around 5,500 bombers and fighters smashed at flying bomb bases in northern France and aircraft plants and communications targets in Germany Thursday as the August air offensive mounted in fury with widespread operations from both Britain and Italy.

RAF bombers, ordinarily used chiefly at night, made two strikes during the day at robot supply bases in the biggest British daylight bombing attack of the war. American Flying Fortresses and Liberators also slashed across the channel twice during the afternoon and late evening, hammering at transport and military targets in their first operation and later hitting robot launching platforms and other objectives in northern France and Paris and Brussels areas.

Approximately 750 heavy bombers and 500 escorting fighters of the U. S. Fifteenth Air Force in Italy battered the German aircraft center of Friedrichshafen and communications in northern Italy.

THREE ASSAULTS

These assaults, supplemented by a series of raids by lighter bombers and fighters as weather cleared during the afternoon, showered an estimated 9,000 tons of explosives on Nazi targets.

All of the heavies were given fighter cover and in some cases encountered enemy opposition. The U. S. Eighth Air Force announced in a communiqué early today that more than 1,000 heavy bombers participated in its twin operations and that seven bombers and six fighters were missing.

Eleven enemy aircraft were destroyed in aerial combat and six on the ground by U. S. fighters, the communiqué said. In the first of these American blows some 750 Fortresses attacked rail yards at Saarbrücken, Mulhouse and Strasbourg, an oil dump at Merckwiller and other military installations in France.

TEN-TON ROCKETS? During the evening other strong forces of Fortresses and Liberators punched at flying bomb launching sites in the Pas de Calais area, a synthetic oil plant at Harnes, an oil storage depot at Courchelette, and objectives in the Paris and Brussels areas.

In another early night operation RAF Mitchells bombed railway junctions on the main line between Paris and Dieppe without loss. A fleet of approximately 1,000 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes escorted by 300 fighters successfully attacked two frequently-bombed flying bomb and rocket depots in northern France in one operation and later another formation of about 700 Halifaxes with fighter cover smashed another robot depot near Watten in Pas de Calais.

It was at Watten that the Nazis were reportedly preparing 10-ton rockets to aim at London.

HOT PACE August's aerial offensive now is space with July's when the strategic forces dropped 137,400 tons of explosives on Europe. American planes based in Britain, Russia and Italy loosed 73,000 tons last month and in the same period the RAF's total was 64,400. Allied planes operating in Norway in the afternoon flew 700 sorties and destroyed more than 100 vehicles. The U. S. Ninth Air Force's Marauders and Havocs bombed five railway bridges in the Rouen-Arles-Orleans sector without loss and other Marauders hit an ammunition dump at Maitenon.

The Liberators from Italy hit the Manzell aircraft factory two miles west of Friedrichshafen, which produces Dornier planes. The Fortresses bombed other targets in that area through clouds. A good concentration of bombs was reported by the crews of Liberators attacking the Avisio viaduct north of Trento on the Brenner Pass rail line.

G. O. P. in Rash Of Predictions

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—(P)—Republican Governors neared the end of a politically significant conference here tonight and took evening swings at the Roosevelt administration and broke out in a rash of predictions of election victories in state after state.

They completed three more items of a 14-point declaration of principles, leaving five to go. Gov. Dewey, the presidential nominee, who is heading the administration, said a statement of general conclusions also was nearing approval. But it and the five remaining points will be released tomorrow.

A report on agriculture assailed "impractical and whimsical restraints" which the Governors said now hamper production and create confusion.

The state chief executives went into a three-hour political parley this afternoon with National Republican Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr., who summed up the discussions this way: "We have reached complete agreement on the co-ordination of state and national campaigns. We will work as a team. Every section will be represented in our councils."

One by one, Brownell canvassed the Governors on prospects of the Dewey-Bricker ticket in their states and said that "it was the unanimous view that if we carry out our plan of campaign and our program for a united party that the Dewey-Bricker ticket will win in November."

FEW VOTES CAST BLAKELY, Ga., Aug. 3.—Because of no opposition, only 53 votes were cast when J. E. Chaney, Blakely businessman, was elected mayor, and Dr. C. R. Barksdale and J. D. Rogers Jr., elected councilmen in Tuesday's annual city election. Chaney succeeds Mayor S. G. Maddox, who was not eligible for re-election under terms of the city charter. Dr. Barksdale succeeds himself and Mr. Rogers succeeds L. B. Fryer Sr., who did not offer for re-election. They are to take office January 1, 1945.

Banks

American bankers who have favored action by banks designed to eliminate what many feel is "government interference" by meeting the credit needs of small business, said of the plan:

TO BE SOUND LOANS "It should be clearly understood that this does not mean that banking is embarking upon a program of making reckless loans. Such loans are of no benefit to the borrower, the bank or the community."

A recent survey of the postwar outlook and credit needs made recently by members of the commission in their own districts, which blanket the entire country, clearly reveals that the major share of the credit needed will be provided by the banking system itself.

"Never before have the banks of this country had such a tremendous storehouse of credit with which to serve the multiple needs of postwar business, industry and agriculture as they have today," declared Hanes. "The deposit structure is now far in excess of one hundred billion dollars. The volume of funds is adequate to finance the credit needs of postwar America regardless of the portions that may be reached in national production."

"This credit will be released just as soon as the economic condition of the country permits and the government regulations restricting the extension of credit in many lines of activity as a precaution against inflation are lifted. It is significant, too, that the cost of bank credit to the borrower is the lowest in the history of this country."

FOR PRODUCTIVE PURPOSES "The members of the Postwar Small Business Credit Commission," said Hanes, "are determined to see that this great credit reservoir is used for productive purposes to facilitate the conversion of business and industry from war to peacetime production, to revitalize the many segments of small business adversely affected by wartime restrictions, and to provide the financial encouragement and strength to business, industry, agriculture and the professions that will create maximum postwar employment, particularly for returning war veterans."

Most of the postwar credit demands will be met by individual banks, either directly or in co-operation with other banks with whom they habitually do business. The commission, however, recognizes that there may be instances where banks, because of limited resources, unfamiliarity with the type of credit desired, or barred by legal lending limits or the terms and conditions required, may be unable to provide the credit needed. It considered various plans for meeting such situations and determined that the voluntary participation regional bank credit group was the most feasible type of organization that could be utilized to perform this function.

It was evident to the commission, Hanes reported, that many banks throughout the country were already establishing small business loan departments or units under some similar name. This is definitely contemplated by the Atlanta banks. The creation of such special departments or committees indicates the growing volume of small business loans being made by banks, and banking's desire to see that the varied needs of this type of enterprise receive specialized and expert attention.

HAS SOLID BACKGROUND "Providing ample credit for small business is no new story to American bankers," said Hanes. "They have been doing it for years. In 1940, the last peacetime year, our banks made 24,000,000 loans, the average new loan being $1,700. We lose sight of the fact that American business is small business and that 92 per cent of it is so classified."

The commission itself is undertaking immediate research into the problems of small business under the guidance of its newly appointed

March of Time Cites Georgian

The March of Time program, which reappeared on the air last night after a month's vacation, featured the dramatic race of Rep. John W. Gibson from his home in Douglas, Ga., to Washington, to save the veterans' GI "bill of rights." This bill was in danger of defeat because Gibson was not in Washington to break a tie vote in committee.

In desperation, national officers of the American Legion, which sponsored the bill, appealed to The Atlanta Constitution to locate Gibson, who at the time was absent from home in Douglas. Dupont Wright, night city editor, got the wires busy. He was assisted by Rolfe Edmondson, rewrite man.

In its dramatization of the incident, the March of Time recast the story of Wright's efforts to find Gibson, then on his way from Waycross to Douglas. In this he called in the aid of radio and the state patrol. At the last minute, he and Edmondson reached Gibson and then the Legion made arrangements to hold the Eastern Air Lines plane at Jacksonville while Gibson, under the protection of the state highway patrols of Georgia and Florida, raced through the night to the Florida city. He caught the plane and arrived in Washington in time to help save the bill.

The March of Time gave credit to The Constitution for locating Gibson and getting him started on his way.

Land War Forgot 'Quislings' Shorn, Daubed With Swastikas

LE MONT ST. MICHEL, France, Aug. 2.—(Delayed) (P)—Members of "Le Mont's" only Quisling family have been dealt with quickly and quietly, their heads shaved and painted with big swastikas.

Outside of that, this village on the rock 400 feet above the sea, familiar to sightseers, has been quietly bypassed by the war.

The spire of the church on top of "Le Mont" and the centuries-old abbey are just as they were when Victor Hugo described the town as France's equivalent of the great Pyramid in Egypt, and much unlike the time in the turbulent past when this was the old French fortress to hold out against Henry V, the hero of Agincourt.

"Boy, this place looks just like something out of the book," said Cpl. James Stokes, of Maywood, Ill. "It will sure be something to tell the wife."

"This is a place to spend the war," added Pvt. Joseph Monahan, of Albia Terrace, Troy, N. Y., looking strangely out of place with his rifle and grenades.

Vanishing Freight Trains

Dewy Footprints, Moving Trees Guide RAF to Hidden Targets

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Footprints in a dewy field and freight trains that entered but never came out of tunnels—from clues as unexpected as these have resulted in the RAF's discovery of German "military targets" off the map for good.

The trail across the dewy field had been left by some German girl munitions workers one fine spring day. The sun was so bright they had walked off the road, and taken a short cut across a meadow. The track they made showed up on an RAF aerial reconnaissance picture, faintly, but clearly enough to invite further investigation and to lead to the factory's destruction.

The strangely behaving freight trains were observed by another pilot as he flew over a tiny branch line somewhere in France. Always the trains puffed into the tunnel. But they never came out at the other end. Air intelligence discovered from this clue that there was "no other end," that the tunnel led to a vast munitions dump. And the big bombers went out again.

From clues such as these, from "moving" forests which hide troop concentrations, from landmarks, such as statues, which have been removed to widen certain roads for extra war traffic—from these the men of Britain's Air Intelligence service build up the evidence which results in the words "Action taken" being scrawled against one more Nazi target on the map.

At least $70 an acre in value. There will follow the expenditure of another $300,000, making $1,000,000 in all, in machinery and seed.

A part of the Callaway plan, aside from the actual formation of 100 seven-man corporations, each to spend $10,000, including the purchase of the land, is that these 100 farms will inspire others.

Credit is necessary, long-term, adequate credit given to character, ability and a sound plan. The banks have now produced a plan which will, when all details are met, supply credit for farm plans as well as small business.

It will be very real tragedy if either plan should fail. Both are so much the American way, and both show such good leadership at work, that they augur well for the future.

Patrol Record Blaze Probed

Att. Gen. T. Grady Head and his staff have launched an investigation into two fires which destroyed all financial records of the Georgia State Patrol.

The fires, one of which was admittedly started by former Sgt. J. T. Bernhardt Jr., were discussed by the attorney general and Maj. Charles Williams, commander of the patrol, yesterday. Gov. Arnall ordered Head to proceed toward having Bernhardt indicted and to collect his bond of $5,000.

In admitting he set fire to the records about 2 a. m. Tuesday, Bernhardt, former assistant treasurer of the patrol, declared he did so in a drunken fit of disgust caused by overwork. He said there was no shortage of funds. Records were partially destroyed at the night of July 5 when a fire broke out in the patrol headquarters. Auditors were scheduled to arrive the following morning. Bernhardt said he and a staff of workers were on duty until late that night, waiting for the records ready for the auditors, and he apparently someone accidentally left a cigarette burning and it fell to scrap paper on the floor.

Soldiers Will Be Furloughed To Assist in Tire Production

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(P)—Soldiers will be furloughed back to tire plants in an effort to step up output of heavy bus and truck tires by 30 per cent in August and September, the War Production Board disclosed tonight.

The goal of a 30 per cent increase was outlined to an emergency meeting of 21 tire manufacturers by Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of WPB.

Advising them of the plan to send soldiers with experience in tire manufacturing to the plants, Wilson said the present shortage of tires "threatens military operations and essential transport facilities at home."

The producers, polled at the end of the closed session, agreed they could meet the increase "if the needed labor is made available."

"We are now shipping as much equipment to overseas battlefronts every two months as we did in the whole of the last war, and it has to move on rubber from the ports of arrival," said Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of material of the Army Service Forces, in explanation of the huge military demand for tires.

Transportation Survey Slated

State and Fulton and Atlanta engineers will begin preliminary studies to map priority projects in a transportation survey of metropolitan Atlanta in conferences slated for 10 a. m. Monday at the State Highway Department.

Moving to expedite preparation of working plans for co-ordinated transportation improvements in the postwar era, members of the Fulton county commission and a special city council authorized group conferred yesterday with Ryburn Clay, director of the State Highway Department. Discussions by engineers were decided upon as the most feasible method of speeding the job.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the council group, said there seemed to be sentiment for settling on obviously urgent projects immediately and executing detailed plans for them immediately. The overall program then could be taken up more leisurely and given more study.

Committee members insisted that priority be given projects on which all can agree in order that no delay may develop in starting work when, as and if a general public works program is initiated by the federal government.

Clay promised full co-operation in the transportation survey which will be financed by state and federal funds at the request of the Atlanta and Fulton county governments.

Mayor Hartsfield named Gilliam as chairman, and Alderman Lester Brewer, fourth ward, and Councilmen Cecil Hester and Ralph Hie, of the first and sixth wards, respectively, to serve with him as the city's committee to coordinate postwar activities for metropolitan Atlanta. The action was taken after council approved a resolution authorizing the special committee. The city group working with the five members of the Fulton county commission is charged with the responsibility of integrating postwar plans.

Fisher Boys Considered Quitting GMC Since '37

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Fisher brothers—Lawrence F., Edward F., William A. and Alfred J. Fisher—who yesterday ended 25 years of active service with General Motors Corporation, said today that they had contemplated the step as long ago as 1937, but asserted they still have no definite plans for the future.

With Lawrence Fisher acting as spokesman they told newsmen at a press conference that their plans do not contemplate affiliation with any other automotive company, although they do plan to get back actively into industrial work.

"All our lives," they said, "we have been in the operating end of business and we won't be content to sit behind desks and operate under a remote control program."

They said there had been no ill will between them and General Motors. Lawrence Fisher said: "The brothers are among the heaviest stockholders in General Motors Corporation."

Industrial possibilities of the south are tremendous, and England will buy an enormous amount of American products if the tariff barrier is removed.

That is the opinion of Henry Carter, chairman of the United States directors of the Caledonian Insurance Company, who arrived in Atlanta yesterday to spend a week or more touring Georgia.

Carter, who has just completed a lengthy tour of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, expressed his opinion on the south's industrial possibilities from the offices of the Whitner Company, local agents for his company.

"It will take England years to rebuild," Carter said, as he pointed out that it had been estimated that one in every five English homes has been either damaged or destroyed thus far during the war.

"I have been in the United States less than three years, and I never owned an ice box until I came to this country. Now I don't even want to be without one, and when I go back to England, I want to take one with me. Of course, it will have to be one of the modern mechanical boxes, for ice is not peddled over there like it is here.

"Then there are the peanuts grown right here in Georgia. England consumes a vast amount of peanuts, but they are imported from French Africa.

"American beef would be far more desirable on the British market than the Argentine beef, but none of these products can be imported on account of the tremendous tariffs built up on American and English products.

"If this tariff was removed, then there would be a tremendous amount of barter between the States and the British Isles."

About the only thing England has to sell the United States as a result of this tariff wall, Carter said, is insurance.

"But every cent taken in in this country by English insurance companies remains right here," he said. "All the American representatives of these companies have to do is report back to the parent company the results being obtained here.

"We operate under the laws of the United States, and we invest every bit of our money right here in the United States."

Nazis Quitting Florence Zone

ROME, Aug. 3.—(AP)—German troops are pulling back behind the Greve river preparatory to a withdrawal from Florence and advance units of the British Eighth Army already have staked out three miles of the historic city, field dispatches said tonight.

It was believed the enemy would pull into a tight pocket behind the Greve where it flows below the southwestern edge of the city, in an attempt to hold until Nazi troops can be moved through Florence, Associated Press Correspondent Lynn Heinzelning wrote from the front.

On the other end of the Italian front the enemy showed determination to make a desperate stand along the Arno river and on both sides of the besieged city of Pisa strong German patrols of up to 200 men slashed into American positions on the south bank of the river, other field dispatches said.

Heinzelning, who is with the Eighth Army, said New Zealand troops were firmly established on the last commanding ridge south of Florence and that the enemy was steadily withdrawing from all sectors below the city.

Their departure was being hastened by columns of British Sherman tanks, Heinzelning wrote, and advance units already had probed German strength less than three miles south of Florence.

German defenses began giving away during the night and by morning it was believed that the enemy definitely was pulling out, presumably to avoid further loss in manpower trying to hold their lines on the ridges. Effective work by Allied dive-bombers helped convince the Germans it was time to fall back.

Advances up to three miles were made on the extreme right of the Eighth Army front and South African troops were moving forward almost even with the New Zealanders.

There was no confirmation of a broadcast German report that Allied artillery had shelled Florence.

In one of yesterday's fiercest engagements Eighth Army units captured the commanding heights of La Poggione, north of the villages of San Michele and La Romola and about five and a half miles southwest of Florence. A few miles to the northwest British and Indian troops crossed the Pesa river and seized the village of Cinestra.

Beer, Wine Defeated At Cedartown Again

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Aug. 3.—By a vote of nearly 5 to 1 Cedartown citizens blocked the return of beer and wine in a special election yesterday.

Since Polk county voted "dry" last November, "wet" leaders frequently have petitioned Cedartown's city commission to legalize the sale of beer and wine in the city.

Prohibition Party To Convene Here Today

The Georgia Prohibition party, hopeful of a last-hour flood of petition signatures to gain it a place on the Nov. 7 general election ballot, will meet in state convention here today.

L. P. Glass, chairman of the Prohibition party's state committee, said the convention would seat any Georgia voter who would sign a pledge asserting he is a registered voter "in sympathy with principles and objectives of the Prohibition party," and promising support of its platform and nominees "so far as I can do so without violating my conscience."

The meeting will be in the criminal court room at the Fulton county courthouse, at 11 a. m.

The party, a minority group which failed to poll five per cent of votes in the last general election, must obtain signatures of approximately 30,000 registered voters in order to gain a place on the regular ballot.

Thus far only the two major parties—Democratic and Republican—have qualified candidates and presidential electors for Georgia's ballot. Numerous minority groups and individuals have sought places, but were rejected pending submission of the required number of signatures.

$104,290 Pay Raises Vetoed by Hartsfield

By HERMAN HANCOCK.
Refusal of members of council to assure Mayor Hartsfield that they would not seek new general salary raises for the city's 2,900 non-school workers in 1945 and a further refusal to earmark future pay roll savings for postwar improvements last night resulted in an executive veto for salary increments which would have cost the municipal treasury $104,290 for the remainder of the year.

U. S. Engineers Up Work Week

The office of Brig. Gen. R. F. Fowler, division engineer of the South Atlantic Division of the Engineers' Corps, will start today on a 54-hour week, following a survey of the backlog of work in the office by the chief of engineers. With the exception of personnel engaged in a three-shift operation and those assigned to the Civil Works Division of the office, who will remain on a 48-hour week, the 1,200 workers involved will remain on the longer week as long as the situation demands it. "When the operations are current," said an announcement from Gen. Fowler, "recommendations will be submitted to higher authority to discontinue the longer work week."

The increase in the work week resulted from a directive from Headquarters Army Service Forces, and came after a study revealing an "over-all backlog of work in the office, coupled with the fact that personnel requirements for the division as a whole are still increasing." Any personnel saved by the longer hours will be utilized in sections where the backlog is most serious, announced Lt. Col. W. Z. Bancroft, executive officer of the engineers' office.

Also included in the longer work week are the Savannah, Mobile and Baton Rouge districts of the corps of engineers.

AMERICANS DRIVE THROUGH AVRANCHES—This street in Avranches was cluttered with wrecked vehicles as U. S. soldiers picked their way through in their advance in the invasion fighting in France, July 31. The advance continues unchecked.

Dixie Solons See 'Hard Row'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(P)—A few southern congressmen foresee a quick end to the war, but most agree that long, hard battles lie ahead. Even those expecting early victory, however, joined today in warning against over-optimism and cautioned that war production must be maintained at full speed. They stressed that congressional work on postwar legislation does not imply that defeat for the Axis is just around the corner. Sen. Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, commented "we are all hoping and praying the European war is going to end by October 1, but if home-front production lags or anything goes wrong, the conflict will be extended."

"The way events are breaking, everything could crack up in a hurry in Europe," said Rep. Hendricks, Democrat, Florida. "However, the enemy could fool us if we start fooling around. The people should calm down and keep working."

Others took a gloomier view. Typical comment included: Rep. Larcade, Democrat, Louisiana: "All this shouting about an early armistice is premature. Germany won't crack up right away. It's been nearly a year since we landed in Italy—a friendly nation to the Allies—and we still haven't taken it. I hope I'm wrong, but I think everyone is entirely too optimistic."

Rep. Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia: "Many people are being misled by German propaganda about an early collapse. The Nazis would like to lull us into giving them a little breathing space so they could make a comeback."

Sen. Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky: "Much harm has already resulted from unwisdom predictions and unjustified optimism on the part of many of our people, because of the belief that the war is almost over."

Rep. Bonner, Democrat, North Carolina: "I don't think Europe will collapse as soon as some people say. There is a long, hard row to travel yet. I think the south realizes that, too, and isn't as optimistic as the rest of the country."

Rep. Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia: "The people should not get any idea that the war is nearly over because congress is rushing postwar plans. Such a feeling is a severe blow to morale."

Capone's Aide Shot to Death

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(P)—"Dago" Lawrence Mangano, public enemy and aide to the one-time gang chief Al Capone, and his companion, Mike Pantillo, were fatally shot today in a typical, clueless gangland assassination. Mangano died shortly before 6 a. m., several hours after the shooting. Pantillo died at 10:30 a. m.

The killers, driving what John T. Warren, deputy chief of detectives, called "that same old black car," pulled up beside Mangano's automobile and pumped several shots into him, then drove around the block and returned, firing several more shots and wounding Pantillo.

Policeman Joseph Schinker said that when he arrived at the scene Pantillo was slumped in the car. Mangano had crawled to the sidewalk and collapsed, and standing over him was a pretty brunette, who identified herself as Mrs. Rita Reyes, and said she had been sitting with the men in the car. Unhurt, she was held for questioning without charge. She described the shooting to the police.

The radio in Mangano's car was softly playing dance music. Schinker said that before Mangano became unconscious he asked "who shot you?" and Mangano replied: "If I knew I'd tell you."

GERMANS AMAZED AT 'HOLE PUNCHER'

WATERVLIET, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(P)—A new invasion gun, nicknamed the "Hole Puncher," arms some General Sherman M-4 medium tanks, Brig. Gen. A. G. Gillespie, commander of the Watervliet arsenal, disclosed today.

Used for the first time in the invasion of Normandy, the new weapon packs a wallop in its armor-piercing shells that can slash enemy combat vehicles.

Army ordnance combat reports indicate the Germans were "amazed and confused" by the remarkable new power slugged out by the 76-mm guns, and that "considerable tactical surprise" was received, Gen. Gillespie said. He added that it supplemented rather than replaced the 75-mm gun-bearing tank using high explosive shells against enemy personnel and positions.

GOP Leaders Convenes Here

Georgia's Republicans, as represented by the central committee of 80, authorized by the state convention some weeks ago, will meet today at noon at the courthouse in Atlanta. It has power to name party nominees.

R. W. Tucker, of Dawsonville, will be in the chair.

The committee refused to give out its agenda, but it is possible the party may decide to nominate candidates for the Georgia legislature in counties in the ninth and seventh districts. Presidential electors also will be named today.

The state rule, requiring a political party to have received 5 per cent of the registered votes at a previous election, while not at all designed to prevent the Republican party from naming candidates, does work to that end.

Hence, the party will not nominate any candidates for congress or for statehouse offices.

It is possible, however, that the committee will recommend the nomination, in 1946, of Republican candidates for governor and other statehouse offices. They also will be eligible, on the basis of the anticipated vote in the presidential campaign of this year, to nominate a candidate for the senate in 1948.

It is possible efforts will be made in the next session of the state legislature to amend the election rules so that the Republican party may be able to lay the groundwork for a real two-party system in Georgia. The possible nomination of legislators today does work to that end.

City Prepares For Offset Job

Acquisition of necessary rights-of-way to eliminate the offset at the intersection of Courtland and Juniper streets with North avenue will begin at once.

City council's public works committee yesterday approved a modified city planning commission proposal and council Monday is expected to give its sanction.

Under the plan, Courtland street will be extended eastward into Juniper street from Linden avenue, but the planning commission suggestion that Juniper be widened to a 50-foot roadway from North avenue to Ponce de Leon avenue was not included in the recommended measure. Another deviation from planning group recommendations occurred when the committee declined to restrict travel on Courtland street from the intersection of the extension at Linden avenue. Under approved plans a triangle will be formed from the intersection of the present Courtland street and North avenue and the new extension.

Public works committee members, headed by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, also announced that five projects have been added to the list of streets which Atlanta and Fulton county are improving jointly. Each government is paying one-half the cost of resurfacing certain selected thoroughfares.

The new program includes the resurfacing of Home avenue from Greer street to Meade street; Meade street from Greer street to South Boulevard; Robinson street from Greer street to South Boulevard; a school road running to Grant Park school from DeKalb avenue, and the paving of roadways in Washington Park.

SALES INCREASE

Department store sales in the Atlanta federal reserve district were up 20 per cent last week as compared with the corresponding week last year. A nation-wide increase amounted to 11 per cent.

Only 26 Pct. of 'Race' Cases Before FEPC Came From South

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Southerners have shouted loudest about "white supremacy" over Negroes but there is plenty of evidence to show that doctrine is practiced widely in the rest of the country.

The strike of Philadelphia transit workers against the hiring of Negro drivers by the transportation company there followed bitter complaints of outright discrimination in that northern city.

The Fair Employment Practice Committee has pending about 2,111 complaints of racial discrimination.

The FEPC was created to prevent discrimination on racial or religious grounds in war industries and thus, its advocates argued, make the best use of the nation's manpower.

1,550 CASES ELSEWHERE
Of the total of 2,111 complaints, 561 are in the south. The remaining 1,550 complaints have been made from the rest of the country.

FEPC officials say: "Those figures don't mean that those are all the cases of discrimination occurring either in the south or the rest of the country."

"Actual discrimination may be far greater but we report only the complaints received."

In the north, particularly, complaints of discrimination against Negroes are apt to be more numerous for two reasons:

"First, there are more Negro organizations in the north and they are active against discrimination. Second, there are more war industries in the north and the FEPC handles only cases of discrimination in war jobs."

Philadelphia is not the only city where there have been protests against proposals to promote Negroes to jobs as bus drivers or as street car motormen and conductors.

There have been complaints of discrimination in Washington, D. C., Baltimore and Los Angeles. The Los Angeles case will be heard Aug. 8 and 9.

There have been complaints of discrimination in the shipbuilding and aircraft industries, public utilities, southern textile mills, machinery manufacture and railroads.

The heaviest load of complaints has come from New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Detroit and St. Louis.

Philadelphia Incident Blamed on FEPC
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Sen. Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico, said today the "racial incident" which tied up Philadelphia's transportation system would have been avoided if permanent fair employment practices law had been in effect.

Across the Capitol, however, Rep. Gibson, Democrat, Georgia, told another reporter he considered the walkout the result of operations by the administration's fair employment practices committee and predicted "further conflict elsewhere" unless FEPC activities are curtailed.

Gibson, asserting that an FEPC order directing upgrading of Negro transit workers to trolley operators "was the whole cause of the strike," added, "if this committee is not disbanded there is no way to estimate the trouble it will produce."

Chavez, chairman of a subcommittee which will hold hearings soon on legislation providing for the creation of a permanent fair employment practice commission, said that under such a law the workers who walked out in protest to the upgrading would be subject to individual prosecution.

Rep. Larcade, Democrat, Louisiana, later told the house that government edicts and "agitators" for changes in this country's racial relations were responsible for the walkout, adding that racial problems cannot be solved by legislative action, fair employment practices committees or federal orders.

Independent, Alexander Says
Henry A. Alexander, who is seeking election to congress as an independent to succeed Robert Ramspeck, last night denied emphatically that he is running as a Republican.

In a letter he brought to The Constitution, he said: "I thank you for your support of my qualifying petition for congress. I am running as an independent, and neither as a New Dealer nor as a Republican. In principle, I am a Thomas Jefferson, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, Evan P. Howell, James R. Gray Democrat. And that is a totally different thing from being a New Dealer or a Republican."

Alexander is seeking the names of 5,000 qualified voters on a petition in order to get his name on the ballot.

Former Atlantan's Wife Succumbs in Colorado
Mrs. Charles H. Mooney, 38, of Birmingham, Ala., wife of Capt. Mooney, who was formerly of Atlanta, died Monday in Denver, Colo., after a long illness. Before their marriage she was in charge of the children's department of the Carnegie Library in Birmingham.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at Spring Hill, with the Rev. L. Wilkie Collins, of Birmingham, officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Karen Mooney; two sons, William B. and Charles H. Mooney Jr., of Birmingham; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Boyd, of Evansville, Ind.

Eleven New Polio Cases Break Out in Kentucky
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Eleven new cases of poliomyelitis were reported to the state board of health today, bringing Kentucky's total since June 1 to 350 cases and the total for the year to 356 cases.

U.S. Presidents' Protector Dies

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Col. Edmund W. Starling, 69, retired head of the White House detail of the U. S. Secret Service, died today at St. Luke's hospital where he had been under treatment for pneumonia since July 14. He had guarded five Presidents.

Mrs. Starling received a message of condolence tonight from President Roosevelt.

Col. Starling retired last November. After leaving his post in Washington he and his wife moved to their home in Miami Beach, Florida.

Starling was charged with protecting the lives of five Presidents—Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt during upsets and nervous periods of war, and Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. During the 25 years he was a member of the White House detail not a single assassination attempt was directed at the President, although many were nipped in the bud.

McCord Leads Tennessee Vote

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Rep. Jim McCord, who chose to vacate Tennessee's Fifth district congressional seat for a try at the state's governorship, was racing away from two opponents in the Democratic primary tonight on the basis of returns from about one-fourth of the state's total precincts.

An Associated Press tabulation based on reports from 700 precincts out of the state's approximately 2,300 gave McCord 35,393 votes against John R. Neal's 2,789 and Rex Manning's 1,749.

Also holding a substantial lead was Rep. Albert Gore, running for renomination in the Democratic primary in the Fourth congressional district, and leading W. H. Turner 4,753 votes to 2,029 in returns from 78 precincts out of 287.

In the Democratic primary in the Fifth congressional district, Ruthford County Judge Harold Earhman maintained an early lead over Dr. T. R. Ray, having polled 8,925 votes to Ray's 5,310 on the basis of returns from 186 out of 279 precincts.

East Tennessee Republicans continued to favor John W. Kilgo for their gubernatorial nominee, giving him 6,890 votes to 3,057 for W. O. Lowe and 1,000 for H. C. Lowry in returns from 178 precincts.

In other contested congressional races incumbent Rep. John Jennings Jr., in the Second district—a Republican stronghold—had compiled 5,484 votes to Knoxville Mayor E. E. Patton's 1,142 in returns from 58 precincts out of 246.

John Lechleiter, a Nashville city councilman, was neck and neck with Rep. J. Percy Priest in early returns from the Sixth (Nashville) district congressional race.

Returns from 13 precincts out of 73 in the Democratic primary, usually equivalent to election, gave Priest 655 votes to Lechleiter's 518.

erators. Trainees are on probation. We have won."

Later he asked all the employees to sign a "power of attorney" giving the committee authority to represent them "on this issue (employment of Negro operators) only."

The eight Negroes, who had been employed by the company in other capacities, were about to begin training as motormen when the work stoppage began.

Aside from Army officers in the transportation company's main office, car barns and other stations, no troops had arrived in Philadelphia last night.

TRANSPORT 1,500,000
The company normally transports 1,500,000 persons, including 800,000 war workers, every day.

Residents of Montreal, Quebec, also were walking to work. Most of the trains were off the streets in the third walkout of tramway workers in 18 months, this time in a dispute over a union shop provision applying to new employees. Workers idle in the Philadelphia and Montreal transport strikes totaled 10,000.

In Detroit, 4,000 workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company streamed back to their jobs after the company opened its gates in obedience to a War Labor Board order.

Regional WLB Chairman Louis C. Mirani called the work stoppage a "lockout" after company officials admitted at a show-cause hearing they had ordered the plants closed. The company suspended the workers, members of the UAW-CIO, for failure to observe a one-hour earlier than usual starting time.

BACK-TO-WORK ORDER
A union meeting was scheduled as members of CIO-United Automobile Workers Local 235 attempted to end a walkout at Detroit of 7,000 employees at five General Motors plants of the Chevrolet gear and axle division. Both the WLB and the union have issued back-to-work orders.

A new dispute began in Detroit, where 425 at the Briggs Manufacturing Company were involved in a controversy over wearing of identification badges.

Two thousand still were out in Buffalo, N. Y., at the Houdaille-Hershey Corporation; 4,700 at the John A. Roebling's Sons and Company in Roeboling and Trenton, N. J., and 4,800 at the General Steel Castings Company, Granite City, Illinois.

More than 3,800 others were idle in nine smaller disputes.

Ralph A. Bard, undersecretary of the Navy, declaring the Navy's production program must continue at high speed until Japan is defeated, asserted last night, "Strikes at a time like this are intolerable."

He did not refer to any specific strikes in making the assertion in an address prepared for broadcast over NBC (March of Time).

New Casualty Totals Listed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Army casualties of 11,190 for the week of July 6 to 13 were announced today by War Secretary Stimson.

This brings the total of Army casualties which have been reported to next of kin to 218,473. At the same time, the officially announced Navy total in the same category—including Navy, Marines and Coast Guard—was given as 51,871, with an overall total for all-service branches of 270,344.

Unco-ordinated announcements from various fields such as Normandy and the Marianas islands, which have not yet been incorporated into the official lists, presumably would swell the total beyond an unofficial casualty figure of 313,087 computed July 27.

Stimson's new Army total, compiled as of July 13, apparently included for the first time many of the losses in the first two weeks' fighting in Normandy.

The B-29 Superfortresses which struck the Japanese steel works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war-

Stimson told a news conference the attack was carried out by a "substantial" force of the Army's new super bombers, which hit Anshan and Tangku, the port of Tientsin in occupied China, on July 29.

U-Boat Is Sunk After Battle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—How three destroyer escorts bagged a German U-boat which sought to attack an Atlantic convoy was related tonight by the Navy which said an hour and a half of furious battling preceded sinking of the submarine "off the Atlantic coast" recently.

The Navy account was based on a report from Lt. William D. Draper, Coast Guard, Saginaw, Michigan.

Depth bombs from a Coast Guard-manned destroyer escort forced the submarine to the surface to open the engagement.

A Navy-manned destroyer escort then rushed in to send her sharp bow ripping into the U-boat's hull.

Submarine crewmen poured from the conning tower and rushed to man the deck guns, but the third destroyer escort was ready. Its Coast Guard crew swept them back with concentrated gun fire.

Rammed, damaged by depth charges and gunfire, the submarine began to settle an hour and a half after it was sighted.

About a dozen of the raider's crew, including her commander, were taken prisoner.

BUG TICKET, FAKE GAS COUPON GIVE LAW ENFORCERS HEADACHE

Atlanta police are continuing to seize large amounts of lottery tickets, and local filling stations report increasing numbers of counterfeit gasoline coupons, despite federal government efforts to stamp out illegal use of gas and sugar coupons.

Lt. M. B. Petty, of the police vice squad, reported seizing $2,000 worth of lottery players' tickets yesterday. He said most of the tickets were found in a truck at Beckwith and Raymond streets. The driver, George W. Wright, Negro, of 422 Markham street, S. W., was bound over under $1,000 in recorder's court.

The other tickets were found in an alley on Courtland street, near Forrest avenue, Lt. Petty said.

One filling station in the outskirts of the city reported it had 480 gallons worth of gasoline tickets returned this month and marked "counterfeit." A downtown filling station had 1,300 gallons worth of tickets turned down. Several other operators also reported finding forged coupons among their renewal sheets.

Three men are still being held by the federal government in its probe of counterfeit ration coupons, which was launched two months ago.

The Banks Act With Vision

One does not ordinarily think of revolutions within banks. Nevertheless a report by the Atlanta Clearing House banks, published this morning in The Constitution, constitutes a revolution in thought and action which should assure the prosperity and advancement of the state and nation.

It is the first act by free enterprise, designed to assure the future of free enterprise, that has come out of all the thinking and talking about our postwar future.

There has been a great deal of deploring and resolving about the future of free enterprise. It is both proper, and inspiring, that the banks have taken the lead and supplied the leadership.

"A new system of lending, designed to meet, without government aid, the needs of small business and of all business in the postwar era and in the transition from war to peace," may be said to be the preamble of the action by Georgia's banks, in cooperation with other banks of the nation, the same being directed by the American Bankers' Association.

What it plans, and what makes it so revolutionary and so likely of success, is it lifts the lending business above the level of interbank competition.

It brings back, into the discussion of loans, those well-known assets on which this country was founded, character and ability. The bankers of the nation have faced themselves and the facts and realized banking customs for too long had largely dictated that loans should be made on the basis of "how much money did you make last year?"

Not only are character, ability and a sound plan to be recognized as assets, but the banks have faced facts again and realized that in the future small businesses must be the foundation of prosperity and that they cannot so become on 30, 60 and 90-day loans. They must have adequate amounts and sufficient length of time to do the job. In other words they must have long-time credits.

In a sense this is one of the most encouraging news stories of this generation. One accepts the obvious sincerity of the nation's bankers and their decision to revolutionize their lending systems.

It is gratifying the banking leadership of the nation realizes that a great portion, perhaps all, of what has come to be called "government interference" grows out of a need that is not otherwise met.

This is the sort of leadership the country has a right to expect. It is positive, not static, it does not deplore conditions, it acts to meet them. In this connection, incidentally, it might be suggested to the nation's physicians they cease deploring, and act. We, too, are against what is called socialized medicine. But there is a need to be met and to date no plans have been announced to meet that need. Their free enterprise system might well investigate the action by the nation's banks. The people have a right to expect leadership.

Georgia's representative on the American Bankers' Small Business Credit Commission, which arrived at this progressive plan, is H. Lane Young, of the Citizens & Southern bank, whose jurisdiction embraces also Alabama and Florida.

Action by the Atlanta banks was based on his report of the national meeting in New York.

Having set their hands to the plow, so to speak, the people will follow with avid interest the workings of the plan. The banks and the people cannot allow it to fail.

Coming on the heels of the Callaway farm plan for Georgia, although quite without design, this statement by the banks of the state will add to the optimistic confidence of the people as to the future of the state.

The times demand leadership. It now is being supplied.

Problem of Reconversion

Congress has had presented to it several bills having to do with reconversion. Some of them plainly are designed to be raids on the Treasury.

One of these bills, backed by one faction of organized labor, would give to workers made jobless by the end of war work, more money than would be paid discharged soldiers. It has no chance of passing and we mention it only to call attention to the fact that unworthy "raid" bills have been, and will be presented. Congress, and the nation, cannot produce any bill which does not give to the returning soldier the best of any arrangement to be made. Workers in war plants have received pay which should have enabled them to store away money and bonds against a rainy day. The soldiers have been able to do so in a much smaller measure, and with greater sacrifice.

Some plan of reconversion, designed to prevent unemployment, is necessary. We earnestly request of public opinion that it carefully watch the bills presented, and follow the debates in congress, so that immediate opinion may be thrown against any "raid" bill which may receive the support of large pressure groups.

'Share and Share Alike'

Winston Churchill made a typical Churchill speech, buoyant, sharp and clear, in speaking to commons on yesterday.

He explained the great plans of invasion were made at Teheran. He declared America's Gen. Eisenhower to be a "genius."

And then he spoke of the casualties. "The Americans, Canadians and British have suffered casualties which are approximately the same," he said. "It is share and share alike."

That is the way the allies wanted it. All nations dread casualties, the sorrow and suffering of them. But in this common cause it is well that since there must be suffering it should be share and share alike.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

(The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.)

John L. Lewis

Editor, Constitution: In his column of July 31, Ralph McGill seems greatly disturbed over the fear that John Lewis may take part in the presidential campaign this year. He goes on to say that Lewis is the "most dangerous" man in organized labor. The businessmen of America have been concerned about this since 1936 when Mr. Roosevelt, upon payment by Lewis of $500,000, sold him the privilege of being the "most dangerous" man in the New Deal gang, as well as in organized labor. Now, with Mr. Roosevelt in the bed with him, Hillman may be just as dangerous as Lewis, without the aid of the President.

It seems rather strange that Mr. McGill never discovered the "danger" of Lewis as long as he was going along with the New Dealers. Lewis hasn't changed—he has simply changed bed-fellows.

Like Mr. McGill, I have no reason to doubt that Lewis broke with Roosevelt because he was not allowed to run for vice president. He had probably been promised a place on the ticket four years previously, when he chipped in the $500,000. Mr. Roosevelt does not hesitate to "brush off" his "stooges" when he gets through with them. I think Henry Wallace can now bear testimony to prove this statement. No one would call Mr. Wallace a "dangerous man," unless some of his dreams went into nightmares.

I agree with Mr. McGill that no white plume should be pinned on the casque of the Republican campaign. I will go him one better—if he insists on a white plume for the Roosevelt-Hague-Kelly-Flynn-Hillman uniform, then may I suggest a slight "touch of lavender," in order that the American voters may not be wholly deceived.

R. O. ARNOLD.

Covington, Ga.
Editor's Note—Mr. McGill has consistently opposed the danger of John L. Lewis since 1936 and does not suggest a white plume for either party.)

Legion Members

Editor, Constitution: There has existed much speculation whether World War II veterans would affiliate themselves with the American Legion upon their return home.

Your attention is invited to the attached release on the American Legion's latest membership report. It contains the answer.

As of July 27, the 1944 national enrollment of the American Legion was 1,388,138, an all-time high. That represented an increase over July 27, 1943, of 245,587 members.

Of particular interest is the showing made by the department of Indiana. Its report shows that Indiana posts are enrolling 60.19 per cent of Hoosier World War II veterans.

True Writers

Editor, Constitution: I read an article in May 6 edition of The Atlanta Constitution received overseas which drew my attention and the attention of other southerners in the service, I am sure. The title of the article was "Southern Writers Who 'Slender Area' Are Denounced." This statement was made by Miss Marguerite Steedman, who in my opinion is one of the few true southern writers left. She was perfectly right when she said "These sensational books showing the south in an unfavorable light, sells good in the north." I am sure of that myself, even by seeing the books checked from libraries. Some of the Yankees like nothing better than to read what they think is our "uncivilized" south.

Another thing I have noticed is the attitude of the moving picture industry toward our homeland. For instance, in "Kiss the Boys Good-Bye" and "Exile in Dixie." These pictures were probably made with good intentions, but any true southerner cannot help but resent this in a theater crowded with Yankees.

If you will print this, I am sure some of these "true" writers who resent what I have said and will write me. That is really what I want, for I would like to write them a few more things personally. Let's keep our south for ourselves. There is only enough room for the ones who love it.

Editor, Constitution: Please allow me to express my appreciation to you for your recent editorial in regard to an increase in salary for the Georgia public school teachers, and also for your fine editorial in regard to the professional way the Georgia Academy for the Blind is now being operated.

The Truth, and Nothing But the Truth

The other day Cason Callaway, director of United States Steel, with a nationally recognized industrial career in his record and one of the nation's most successful farms as his present work, stood before 800 business and civic leaders of Georgia and said:

"Poor land is the basic obstacle to profitable farming. For generations our forefathers literally 'mined' the soil in growing cotton. There seemed to be an abundance of land, and farm labor was plentiful and cheap; when one area was worn out, another was taken over, and the abandoned land was left to continue to erode. Eventually our depleted land was largely left to tenants whose only means of existence was the planting of annual cash crops, which continued and magnified the depletion of the land's richness.

"Annual cash crops are largely soil-depleting. In annual crops you must start all over again every year. Probably 95 per cent of our cash crops in our state come in this category. This situation produces low income, less education, poor health, high interest rates, and a feeling of 'come day, go day, God send Sunday,' mitigating against the building of character in the man as well as against the building of fertility in the soil.

"The result is that we have poor land—land that is worn out and eroded away with cultivated crops which increase erosion, taking everything from the land and putting nothing back. As a result, Georgia farm land as a whole, including the recent rises in price, will average about $30 an acre. We are forced to compete with farm land outside the southeast which will average about $150 an acre. I believe we will agree that we can no more do that than a man with a broken-down $300 truck can compete against a man with a $1,500 truck.

"The only way we have been able to survive in the past, with this broken-down truck, has been with labor at around 75 cents to $1 a day. I do not believe that in our lifetime we will see this wage scale again; and I think that is all right. But whether you or I may think it is all right or not has nothing to do with it. We must get out of the position of trying to take $30 land and compete with it against $150 land, or else continue to move off the land and leave it as we have been doing for the last 20 years."

That is truth, plain, painful, unadulterated. The simple truth is that the agricultural machine of the southern states, still dependent on annual crops, is breaking down fast. Another painful truth is that until the soil conservation policy was adopted there was no effort made to stop the washing away and the accumulative depletion of the soil.

WILL THEY LISTEN? I think they will listen to Cason Callaway. But I know this—there will be hundreds, standing on the porches of their own unpainted, rotting, small farm houses, to swear at him as a "big man trying to play with farming."

The politicians we have had, the many panting "friends" of the farmer, largely are responsible. If the southern political speeches of this and the last generation were read and analyzed they would be found to be merely an appeal to the prejudices of mankind, particularly farmers. They would be found to be telling the farmer only that he was mistreated and that they, the politicians, would be his "friend," if elected. A few markets were built, an occasional fertilizer and seed law was raised, a cheap automobile tax supplied, and the rest of it was "cussing the government" in an effort to make the farmers want to vote to turn someone out of office and put the "cuss" in.

That was their program. That was their friendship for the farmer.

It is one of the shames of the south's political leadership that not one state has produced a political leader who knew, or who would say if he knew, what Callaway said.

OLD FACTS They are old facts. They have been said many times.

That is—too much of our land already is washed away, too much of it is worn out. The condition has been able to live on only because of low labor costs, of croppers and tenants worse off than the peasants of Europe. This has passed for good and the south ought to be glad of it. Even low labor would not allow us to compete against good land and the machinery which is being put onto the farms of the middle west.

The man with the plow and the man with the hoe is no longer an economic competitor with tractors and the tools they pull. It is not going to be easy. It is not to be done quickly. It can be done only with capital.

The 100 corporations will find their investment the slowest in return they have ever attempted. They will meet with many discouragements.

But each of the 700 men who become stockholders and hire 100 capable farmers to do the job will know they are giving to the state of Georgia something tangible which will endure and pay returns for generations to come.

It must be realized, without any doubt and equivocation, that the real makers of war are not the Nazis or the Hitler, but the German general staff, the hierarchy of Junkers army officers whose entire lives are dedicated to the profession of foreign wars. These are the men who do not consider either the first or the second of World Wars as separate conflicts, but merely campaigns in the continuing war which they believe will go on, with a third and if necessary more outbreaks until they have finally conquered the world. Peacetime they regard merely as an armistice, granting them time to rebuild a shattered military machine.

It is these, the hierarchy of the German general staff, who constitute the actual menace to the world. Hitler and his criminal gangsters are merely a passing incident which they were able to use for their own purpose and through which they will always believe they were very close to achieving the ultimate triumph. In fact, they will believe, no matter how complete Germany's defeat this time, that the German army was actually far better, far braver and far more brilliant in leadership than any of the United Nations and it was only the overwhelming weight of that bourgeois capacity for production by the United States, made possible by geographic accident, that accounted—not for their defeat—but for their lack of immediate success.

INTERNAL ATTACK This general staff has learned that a country cannot be subdued, cannot be taken over, by force of arms. To subdue a country it is necessary to plant within it political and industrial leaders who will create dissension and who will use its industrial plant for the benefit of the attacker. The general staff has a scheme it is, even now, putting into operation. They call it "indirect complicity."

It is simple yet terribly involved in its mass of detail. It involves sending over agents, men they can absolutely trust, into the countries to be attacked in the future, in order that these men may become well established in the business, industrial and political life of the chosen victim, before the actual assault begins.

These men, of course, will so conduct themselves they will easily become naturalized citizens of the country they plan to destroy. They may not, even, come here, for instance, directly from Germany. To allay suspicion they will change citizenship twice, coming to us as subjects or citizens of some other country than their German homeland.

These will be well trained and educated to assume prominence, at least in their local communities. And, in subtlest way, they will seek to convert others to their way of thinking on many subjects, all of which will be for the furtherance of German plans, even though the issues involved may seem totally divorced from international affairs.

If they can keep United States opinion and policies hopelessly divided and confused and in state of frequent change, they will have achieved their object of weakening the national strength of this country.

UNWITTING AIDES For each of these men who are consciously agents of Germany, there will be scores of Americans who think themselves loyal patriots who will, nonetheless, be tricked into playing the game the Germans want them to play. Sowers of disunity, preachers of hatreds, demagogues of untruth, unscrupulous politicians and overly greedy business men. Power-drunk union leaders and pitiful mobsters who are led by any violence by any glib person. These, and many others, will constitute the "indirect complicity," which the German general staff even now is planning and beginning as the first step in weakening this and other of the United Nations, in preparation of the day when the German armies and air force will, without warning, once again spew death upon a world too decent to comprehend the depths of depravity to which that staff can sink.

There is only one way to guard against this plotted betrayal from within. The FBI can't protect us, nor can any official action or government force.

The only salvation possible is through care and watchfulness on the part of every American to see that he does not become involved, in either direct or indirect complicity, in serving the purposes of a Germany who seeks, in this time, to ride to world mastery upon the bodies of countless pitiful dead.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Overawed

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—This contribution to American literary treasure and political wisdom is being written under the same roof which covers the deliberations of the 26 Republican governors who are pondering a supplementary party platform under Tom Dewey's general supervision. Serious men—all, of varying degrees of intelligence and statesmanship, they are meeting in defensive spirit, handcuffed as it were by the prestige that Frank Roosevelt has assumed for himself as a personal chum and easy confidant of Stalin and Churchill, and hushed by their own awe of a native American politician certainly no better than themselves.

This is a political fight between two American candidates for one office. If that office were mayor, sheriff or coroner, the Republicans would be at ease and ready to throw record at Roosevelt. If an incumbent sheriff, elected on a crime-must-go platform, had established a flagrant and mocking alliance with the very same sordid gangs, comparable to Ed Kelly's and Frank Hague's, that he had affected to despise and promised to destroy, the opposition would disgrace him with proof of his own hypocrisy. If the sheriff had exploited his office to enrich his own relatives and his political parasites through by-products of his office, his opponent would hound him day and night with proof of his avarice and his betrayal of misplaced trust. If he had organized a new underworld gang of his own, levying tribute on every worker in the country for his own political fund, as Roosevelt has done in the pseudo-idealistic and humane American labor movement, the rival candidate would not be calling him "mister" but uglier names more appropriate to their accusations.

In Re Ham Fish

Yet, these Republicans speak softly and with a respect for the presidential office which no more belongs to Roosevelt as a candidate than it belongs to Dewey in the same status. They have been so dazzled, awed and humbled by Roosevelt's own propaganda that when C. Ham Fish, a Republican, states an indisputable fact, Dewey and the rest of the party disown him.

The truth is that it wasn't Ham Fish who injected issues of class, religion and race into this campaign, but Roosevelt's own Communist auxiliary which went underground a few months ago and emerged as the Political Action Committee of the CIO.

For Irish, Catholics, anti-Catholics, Jews, Masons, Protestants and units of labor and business all have voted as blocks in this country, off and on, according to the heat of the moment, for generations. Roosevelt, himself, appointed to the United States supreme court a man of such miserable character that, just to win a cheap, local job as county prosecutor in Birmingham, Ala., he joined an oath-bound gang of night-riding terrorists whose guiding creed was hatred and persecution of Jews, Catholics and Negroes.

Yet, such is the power of the Roosevelt propaganda and the spell of his New Deal cynicism, that today, there are even Republicans who disown Fish, not for his infallible oratorical, but merely because he remarked that Roosevelt would command the Jewish vote.

Communist Way

Every honest politician and political writer in the United States knows that religious and racial prejudice are political implements of the Communists as well as of the true bigots. Where the bigots arouse such issues in plain, stupid hatred and superstition, the Communists do it for the calculated purpose of causing bloody division. They do it by selecting despicable characters to commit outrageous attacks on the dignity and character of honest, tolerant Americans. For years the Communists of Roosevelt's own political auxiliary have been trying the souls of exemplary patriotic men who shed their blood in France in the purest devotion to American ideals, by subjecting them to loathsome abuse. They call them Nazis and Fascists and, thus, traitors to their country and, for the delivery of these trying provocations they have selected ingrate refugees who not only settled out of the American draft in the last war but exploited their time in soap-box employment to other immigrants to make a revolution here in the absence of the nation's best fighting men.

That is the Communist way. The Communists all will vote for Roosevelt. Their agent in the Political Action Committee, Sidney Hillman, has been a guest at the White House where Herbert Hoover and Tom Dewey, Americans, surely, never had been invited in Roosevelt's 12 years.

Yet the Republicans cringe and repudiate him on the very day that Vito Marcantonio, the Communist candidate, is renominated for congress in New York.

Marcantonio openly preaches Communist doctrine and is loyal at once, both to Roosevelt and to Joseph Stalin, who slaughtered more human beings, his fellow Russians, in cold-blooded butchery and calculated famine than the United States has lost in all our wars from the Revolution down to this very day.

Fish fought bravely in the first World War. Marcantonio has never worn a uniform or heard a shot and resisted every effort to arm this nation for its own defense until Hitler attacked Stalin.

And while the Republicans, in pallid words, dissociate themselves from Fish, what says Roosevelt about the nomination of Marcantonio? He doesn't even bother to deny that the Communists are his. The American people don't even know where he is.

Three Strikes on Him, Rudy's 'A Born Bachelor'

Mrs. Rudy Vallee is suing her husband for divorce. Now he'll have to change his theme song. To "My Time Is My Time."

Vallee? You remember Rudy Vallee... the Victorian Frankie Sinatra.

Vallee was the heart-throb of the crystal-set contingent way back when repeated clickings in your radio were recognized as static and not some fool way of plugging cigaret sales.

Vallee is an admitted forty-one now. That seems kind of old for a crooner... until you look at Bing.

Not, of course, that Vallee's has been by any manner of means. Having come along this far without realizing the necessity of having his adonoids out, he may well go on panicking the public until his social security starts kicking through.

Who knows, in time he may even come to be billed as "The Male Sophie Tucker?"

Next, perhaps, to Jimmy Durante, Vallee has gone further on his own than any man in history. It was, in fact, to describe his vocalizing that they invented the classification: Nasal Baritone.

This was Rudy's third unsuccessful marriage try. What a shame that he never found harmony in his home life, either.

"He's just a born bachelor," the last Mrs. Vallee explained at her uncontested divorce proceedings. It's a shame he had to find it out by the trial and error method.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Dewey In Need Of a Guardian

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's political managers will need to appoint a guardian to accompany him in his campaigning over the country if he delivers himself of many more remarks of the sort attributed to him in Pittsburgh the other day.

Speaking of the need for moving ahead with industrial reconversion plans in preparation for the time when the country is no longer at war, the Republican presidential nominee had this profound observation to make on the history of the past decade: "As I see it," he declared, "the United States simply cannot face another period like the Roosevelt depression which lasted for eight years, with more than 10,000,000 unemployed continuously from 1933 to 1940, inclusive."

The Roosevelt depression from 1933 to 1940! Get it? Anyone hearing that remark from Gov. Dewey would have a right to assume that he had never heard of the stock market collapse of 1929, which threw the nation into an economic tailspin.

ALTERING HISTORY Remembering that the bursting of the stock market bubble had come under the Hoover administration, most of us had formed the habit of referring to the great depression which followed as the Hoover depression.

Since Mr. Roosevelt owed his first-term election almost entirely to the forces of unrest set in motion by the economic debacle under Hoover, it somehow had never occurred to any of the contemporary historians to credit him with the depression whose beginning preceded his administration.

So far as the record shows, Gov. Dewey is the first person of any responsible standing who has chosen to alter the facts of history.

By the same token he might just as well refer to the bank holiday as the great Roosevelt banking panic.

For political mendacity, the New York Governor's statement is unequalled. He speaks of the millions of men who were unemployed during the early days of the Roosevelt administration, but says not a word about how they came to be unemployed. Nor does he say anything about the millions of others who were put to work through the vast public works program undertaken by the government for this purpose.

HOOVER FAILED Gov. Dewey mentions only the deficits involved in those unemployment programs, which is a way of saying that had he been President during those troublous times we could have put the people back to work without the huge government expenditures incurred. He seems to forget that President Hoover tried this and failed—miserably!

The Roosevelt depression of 1933-40! There is one for the books. It will be interesting to see what the President's reply will be. Certainly it is too inviting a campaign plum for him to pass up the opportunity to seize upon.

It offers a theme that the President could really go to town on. All he would have to do would be to give a few comparative figures on economic conditions under the Hoover administration and those which have been brought into being since.

One modest little tid-bit is that we, the American people, paid out more in taxes to the federal government last year than the total national income was under the final year of the preceding Hoover administration. And after paying out that much in taxes—some $40,000,000,000—we still had more than 100 billion dollars left.

AMATEUR IN FACTS But Mr. Roosevelt could stay within the bounds of the Dewey statement and make the New York Governor out a rank amateur for facts. That is to say, he could show where under his administration the national income just about doubled from 1933 to 1940.

Depressions, of course, get their names from the reverse procedure. It is declining markets and declining national incomes that give rise to depressions. According to Mr. Dewey, we were still in the throes of a depression—the Roosevelt depression—while markets and national income were bounding upward, almost double.

A few more remarks of that kind, uttered in all seriousness, will start the thinking people of the country laughing at Mr. Dewey. And that is always fatal to a candidate for high office.

ONE STRIKE He has one strike on him already, it seems, from the boner he pulled, shortly after getting the nomination, about the President's position as commander-in-chief. The assumption was warranted by that statement that he was by no means familiar with the full scope of duties of a President of the United States.

He gave a pledge of no civilian interference with the war program in a way to indicate that the war was capable of running itself without any overall directing hand.

The youthful New York Governor will need to be more careful about such things in the future. It is just possible that the country will get the impression that he is engaged in an undertaking very much over his head. And in that case he might end up in November as a worse defeated man than poor old Alf Landon, of Kansas, who carried Maine and Vermont.

Normandy Mosquitoes Swarm Like Bees

SOMEWHERE IN NORMANDY.—(By Wireless)—Mosquitoes are pretty bad in the swampy parts of Normandy. Especially along the hedgerows at night, they are ferocious. Here in Normandy they have something I've never seen before even in Alaska, the mosquito capital of the world.

CELESTINE SIBLEY

Early Morning Very Interesting

There used to be, back in prewar days, a neat and handy pigeonhole for people who talked about seeing the sun rise. They were either poets—and thereby licensed to observe nature at phenomenal hours—or were automatically classified with the cold shower addicts as braggers and or liars.

Any normal acting human being who wasn't meeting a train or visiting on a farm, gave the sun a chance to get up first and get the sleep decently out of its eyes before submitting it to bald scrutiny. That, of course, was before the war.

Now, if there is anything typical about the way things stir around this little hunk of the U. S. A. in the dawn's early light, we might well be becoming a nation of early risers. Just two or three years ago this was a somnolent section of childless couples or middle-aged parents whose children had married and moved away or were off at school. Citizens went leisurely about the business of getting ready for the day after the cook had come and after a second cup of coffee.

Then came the war and daughters home with their babies. Then came the housing shortage and the patriotic practicability of turning the upstairs into an apartment for "that nice little couple" of war workers. Before anybody knew what was taking place, the street was lifted out of its late-afternoon lethargy and had found, as the cold shower takers say, once you get used to it, why it's invigorating!

BABY KNOWS

The urban signal for the day to begin is not a rooster flapping his wings and crowing on the back fence, but a baby gnawing hungrily at his pink crumpled fists and letting out a plaintive "wah, wah!" The little boy in the red brick apartment building the first call in this neighborhood and then rapidly up and down the block the other six babies who were born last summer take up the cry. In that many homes mothers stumble sleepily to the kitchen and the bottle warmer—and the day is on!

Before the sun starts sifting down through the trees along the rooftops across the street, turning them to pale green lace along the edges, before the smell of coffee and bacon frying have risen far on the morning air, the horns are blowing up and down the street. Defense workers are being picked up by their car pools.

There's the low-slung convertible with the musical horn and the radio that can somehow supply dance music at dawn. It's blowing up and down the street. Defense workers are being picked up by their car pools.

WHO LIVES HERE?

I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me.—Galatians 2:20.

Martin Luther echoing St. Paul's exultant cry of oneness with Christ, said: "If anyone comes knocking at my heart saying, 'Who lives here?' I will say 'Not Martin Luther but Jesus.'" Here is the end of our quest for fullness, for peace. How to center our impulses in our divine Lord is our supreme need. Muriel Lester, who speaks out of the practicality of the presence, finds it helpful upon waking in the morning to focus her thoughts through such concepts as "shining beauty, radiant joy, creative power, all-pervading love, perfect understanding, purity and serenity."

Savior, I would know Thee in the fullness of Thy nurturing and redeeming power. So order my spirit, I pray, that I, too, may affirm: "I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

Editorial Comment From Anti-Roosevelt Newspapers

NO INCENTIVE

(Cincinnati Inquirer)

New Dealers complain that capital is afraid to take risks and invest in new enterprises. There are two good reasons why new enterprises are not appearing. In the first place, war forbids new buildings, new machinery, and the recruiting of a working force. These basic necessities as things are now are impossible. Then a risk demands a corresponding profit. It is a gamble and should have odds in its favor. But the government gives no odds. If the new and risky enterprise fails, the people who put up the money lose it; if it succeeds, then the government, by taxation, takes away the profit and leaves the owners not even bread and butter money, let alone pie.

An old, established business can stand for this, but a new concern, struggling to get on its feet, cannot. And that is why investors are not taking the risk of starting new enterprises. They just feel the laborer is worthy of his hire.

WIN THE ELECTION PARTY

(Chicago Tribune)

Rep. Dies says that Sidney Hillman's Communist-dominated CIO political action committee is "the political arm of the New Deal administration." Rather, it is the political brain of the fourth term drive. It picked the fourth term ticket in Chicago, and it is now directing the fourth term campaign, while Mr. Roosevelt and his pay rollers try to make the people think they are devoting all their energies to winning the war. Rep. Dies' evidence proves how outrageously false that boast is. The New Dealers who tried to ditch the New Deal tag for the more popular "win the war" label are busy, just as they have always been, trying to win the next election. The public pays their salaries in the name of war work. The only work it gets out of them is ward heeling on the grand scale.

NASHVILLE'S NEW DEAL VOICE

(Savannah, Ga., Morning News)

The Nashville Tennessean, musing over the doings at the recent New Deal convention in Chicago, expresses the opinion that the three best speeches at the gathering were delivered by Henry Wallace, Gov. Arnall and Sen. Pepper! The Tennessean is highly pleased with what these gentlemen said because it believes they "affirmed the principles of progress which ever must be the credo of a dominant Democratic party."

EVERY MAN—AND EVERY NEWSPAPER—has a right to his opinion, this being a free country—almost.

But, it would be intriguing if the Tennessean would define in clear terms what it means by "principles of progress" in view of the manner in which the New Deal regime has humiliated and neglected the south at almost every turn—and then on top of that, through its ubiquitous priestess, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt—has piled insult upon injury by attempting to upset southern traditions which have been cherished as long as there has been a southland.

If the Nashville Tennessean is unable to identify the Roosevelt regime with the sordid political machinations of the CIO, the Communist racketeers and the city gang bosses, all encouraged and supported by the Roosevelt regime, its naivete is refreshing to say the least.

But, to be entirely fair, perhaps it is kinder to say that the Nashville daily's "principles of progress," as embodied in the Roosevelt regime, is merely a political shibboleth, with some sort of mysterious tag on it, reminiscent of Gov. Arnall's recent oracular observation—after he had been closeted with the "golden voice of radio"—that "Henry Wallace should be nominated and he will be nominated."

In other words, there surely must be more than what merely meets the eye in the Tennessean's valiant efforts to uphold democracy by tooting the horn of a political machine which is as different from real democracy as day is from night!

"ONE OF THE BOYS"

(Daily Oklahoman)

Kelly, of Chicago; Hague, of New Jersey; Flynn, of New York, and the other big urban machine bosses aren't in business for their health. They are tough and realistic and they know pretty well in advance what they are going to get in return for their support, if the candidate is successful at the polls.

Personally, they are delightful gentlemen, but the machinery back of them includes some of the toughest and most corrupt elements in American political life. Mr. Truman is a delightful gentleman who started out as a protégé of Boss Pendergast, of Kansas City, who finally landed in the penitentiary. To meet him, perhaps you wouldn't think of him as a part of a city machine. But the realistic Kelly, Flynn, Hague, et al, knew exactly where they were going at the Chicago convention and they knew exactly why they wanted Mr. Truman for vice president. Potentially, he is a President, and just think how nice it would be to have "one of the boys" in the White House!

Governor Thomas E. Dewey

made his big reputation by smashing the very same kind of machines that these amiable gentlemen are now running. They are desperately afraid of Dewey, who is ruthless when he gets on the trail of a racket. No wonder they are rallying to the Roosevelt-Truman standard. Nothing would change the present smug and prosperous city bosses into a state of gibbering, chortling panic as to how they might have a real racket-buster in the White House.

"Protesting high cost of homes, members of Textile Workers' Union are building sample residence, their object being to discover the actual cost of same."—News item.

When the stalwart man and lovely maid make up their minds to wed, And the parson says the words that hitch them in double traces, They set out with thoughts of little homes revolving in each head As they dream of roses' round the door and chubby baby faces. Ah, the dreams of youth, how wonderful, how fairy-like and fragile When the dew is on the roses and the world is just a song, When our joints bend without creaking and we're limber, strong and agile,

And the road that's stretched before us looks so beautiful and long. Deep and solemn consultations with the general contractor, Numerous negotiations with the man who makes the loan, Lengthy arguments with architects, a most important factor, Budget figures oft-computed, living whittled to the bone. Finished is the humble cottage, and insured against disaster, And we settle down in confidence that life will now begin— But our dreams are rudely shattered by the sound of falling plaster And we're startled from our slumber as the roof comes falling in. Then we learn that life is earnest, that it's real and unrelenting, And we long to shoot the man who said, "...the grave is not our goal." For we wish we might be A-fabs on some peaceful desert tenting Or a hermit with a cavern on some isolated knoll, Then we learn the cost of building and the upkeep ever mounting— But the uninitiated will find out to their surprise, When they've finished up the little shack and done their cost accounting, They'll be frazzled out so bad they'll want a mansion in the skies.

The Pioneer Zephyr—Daddy of 'em All
FIRST DIESEL STREAMLINE TRAIN IN AMERICA
1934—TENTH ANNIVERSARY—1944

MORE THAN A TRAIN... A Symbol

• Burlington's Pioneer Zephyr, first diesel-powered, streamline train in America... symbol of a dramatic era in railroad transportation... and of the even more dramatic progress to come.

Christened on April 18, 1934... exhibited in 222 cities in 27 states... tested through 30,000 experimental miles, the Pioneer Zephyr entered regular service with national acclamation, on November 11, 1934... thus establishing the first streamline service in America.

Today, the Burlington has fourteen gleaming stainless steel Zephyrs operating on its system lines. More than 100 trains, fashioned to the streamline pattern, have gone into service for railroads throughout the country.

With ten years of outstanding service to its credit—during which it has covered approximately 1,676,000 miles—the Pioneer Zephyr is still on active duty, serving wartime America to the tune of 436 miles each day.

In the coming peacetime years, we look forward to a program of further improvement and refinement of the "streamline train" era, inaugurated by the Pioneer Zephyr ten years ago.

Georgia Prep Coaches Re-elect 'Shorty' Doyal

Coach R. L. (Shorty) Doyal was guilty of absenteeism when the roll was called at the buffet-luncheon and business meeting of the Georgia Athletic Coaches' Association at the Atlanta Athletic Club yesterday, but his fellow members got together and re-elected him president of the organization. Bill Geer, acting as chairman in the absence of the boys' high mentor, was re-elected to the vice presidency, and Dwight Keith was named to remain as secretary and treasurer.

The delightful luncheon, which was given by Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, and the subsequent business meeting and election of officers were highlights of the fourth day of the Georgia Coaching Clinic, which will continue through Saturday night at Georgia Tech.

President Doyal, Vice President Geer, of Dacula, Ga., and Dwight Keith, Georgia Tech basketball coach, will get together in the next day or two and name district officers for the association.

BARRON BURKE PRESENT
F. E. Barron, of Homerville, president of the Georgia School Coaches' Association, and Sam Burke, of Robert E. Lee in Thomson, secretary of the organization, were on hand at yesterday's meeting and cleared up a few rulings for the boys, and are making a request for all track coaches in B and C division schools in the state to send in suggested changes for the handling of track meets to Mr. Burke at Thomson in the next week or so before the next meeting. If the coaches favor the addition of some events to future state meets the coaches wish to take action on it then.

Catastrophe Is Averted
In Local Marital Circles

"What is this pink thing in the back seat of your car?" asked a suddenly irate wife Sunday afternoon as she proceeded to get into her husband's car parked at a popular club's swimming pool.

"What pink thing?" he demanded, bewildered.

"This!" his wife exclaimed, as she reached on the back seat and held up a piece of pale lingerie.

Dumfounded, he could only blink his eyes. "I . . . I . . ." he began.

"You'll never get away with this!" she exclaimed, as she flung it upon the floor of the car.

"I . . . I . . . don't know a thing about it . . . never saw it before . . ." he told her.

"Really?" she gasped. "This is the end. . ."

"I swear I never saw it before, honey," he told her.

"To think I can't leave town for even a few days without something like this turning up!" she gasped.

Suddenly there was consternation in the car next to theirs. "Yes, mummy," they heard a small child saying, "I did just like you told me, put it on the back seat. . ."

"Well," the child's mother said, a little frantic, "you can see it's not here. . . I knew I should have put it in the car myself!"

Mr. Innocent Husband beamed. "Mrs. . . ." he called, holding up the strange piece of lingerie, "could this be what you are looking for?"

The child's mother came forward hastily. "Why, yes," she smiled, "my little girl evidently placed it in the wrong car. . ."

Thank you!"

Slowly Mrs. Formerly-Irate Wife climbed into her husband's car. With a loud thrust of the gears he backed his car out, to drive home in a victorious silence!

ORANGE BLOSSOMS AGAIN?

A most attractive Atlanta widow who was born with a silver spoon in her mouth on the site of New York's famous "21" Club, and who has recently become a well-known antique connoisseur, is the recipient of an extremely attractive southern hemisphere bachelor's constant attentions.

Since, for the past several years, she has devoted her undivided time to her children, now grown up and moved away from the parental roof, and more recently to her newly acquired business interests, her wide circle of friends is watching this romance with great interest, and wondering if a "middle-aisle" is again in the offing. . .

Can you name her?

NEW SUBDEB SHOP

If it weren't for the war, and everyone's restlessness to be "doing something," the July heat wave would hardly have seen pretty brunet Mary Hurt Clayton and very blond Anne M. Mitchell rolling up their sleeves and opening, on the mezzanine of a smart Peachtree street saloon, a new subdeb department.

Since Mary Hurt and Anne are noted for their own very smart costumes and impeccable taste, doubtless many Atlanta girls will be wisely guided by them in the new autumn colors and models, come the falling of the leaves.

Nazis Intentionally Spread Diseases In Ukrainian Town, Killing 150,000

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Ukraine state atrocities committee charged today that 150,000 patients died in a German hospital at Slavuta, about 160 miles west of Kiev, during the two years of Nazi occupation.

The committee charged that German doctors intentionally spread infectious diseases by herding new patients at gunpoint into a room where 1,800 were already dying of typhoid and tuberculosis.

Evidence was collected by investigators under Nikita Krushchev, head of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, said the committee, which included medical and legal experts. Their findings were given a full page, with photographs, in all Soviet newspapers.

Other charges were: Red army prisoners were tortured and beaten, and many were buried alive. Hospital newsmen were robbed of warm clothing and shoes by guards.

All attempts at escape were punished by death.

Barbed wire, searchlights and machineguns surrounded 10 brick barracks, where 15,000 to 18,000 wounded and diseased were housed.

Throughout the two years an average of 800 to 900 corpses lay on the ground at a hospital railway siding, and only 525 persons remained alive in the hospital when the Red army liberated Slavuta.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin
By George Rector

GOOD PLANNING MAKES SPEEDY DINNERS

There's no reason for anyone spending long hours in the kitchen these hot days. Quickly prepared foods can be equally as attractive and nutritious as those which take long hours to prepare. So don't be a slave to your meals... work with your head instead of your heels.

Hot Potato Salad and MOR—A Summer Delight

1 can MOR 3 tbs. vinegar
2 tbs. bacon fat 1/4 cup hot water
1 small onion, minced 4 med. potatoes, cooked and cubed
1 tsp. mustard 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 tsp. salt 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 tsp. pepper 1/4 cup Clear Brook
1 tsp. sugar 1/4 cup Clear Brook

Cut MOR into 10 slices; dice two of these slices to add to salad. Heat bacon fat (drippings) and cook onion in it about 5 minutes, browning very lightly. Add seasonings, vinegar and water and when hot, add potatoes, egg and diced MOR, mixing gently. Cover and allow to heat through, stirring occasionally. Serve hot, on a platter, surrounded by slices of MOR. Serves 4.

Clip Recipe Here—

Good planning for the quickie above includes two things: First, that you have a liberal supply of MOR in your pantry; and second, that you have cooked both eggs and potatoes earlier in the day or the previous day. It's so easy when boiling potatoes to cook enough extra for one or two later meals. And what a convenience! Scrub well and boil them in their jackets if you would conserve the greatest possible amount of food value and flavor.

And speaking of food value, you'll find MOR is a great help in planning nutritious as well as quick and delicious meals. For MOR is made of high quality pork shoulder meat, which is so rich in thiamine (Vitamin B₁), commonly known as the nerve vitamin.

VICTORY GARDEN SPECIAL

Hot corn-on-the-cob, fresh from the victory garden, made temptingly juicy with Clear Brook Butter and seasoned to perfection with salt and pepper makes a grand accompaniment to the salad pictured. For crispness

Hitler Chooses Political Boss

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler, the man he put in charge of home defenses, have tightened the Nazi grip on the German army with mass promotions of SS leaders to higher military ranks and appointments of one of the party faithful as "chief Nazi political commissar" in the Wehrmacht.

These disclosures were made in two DNB announcements broadcast today from Berlin.

One said Hitler, Himmler and Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel addressed a meeting of "political guidance officers" at which Gen. Baron Ritter von Hengel, commander of mountain troops, was presented as chief of this department.

The political commissars' division was organized last spring for Nazi indoctrination of the Wehrmacht in preparation for a last-ditch fight.

Girls Stage Show To Purchase Some Magazines for Patients

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD.

With helping the war effort upmost in mind during vacation time Barbara Kelly, Jackie Simmons, Betty Ray Wathen and Emmie Wardlaw, four pretty young girls living in the north Morning-side section, banded together to give a recent all-star show. The admission fee was the lowly five-cent piece, and with $1.25 the sum collected from the patrons, the girls bought eight current magazines to give to patients at Lawson General Hospital.

The patriotic entertainment was staged on the terrace at Jackie's home on Wildwood road, and great was the excitement among the talented stars and the first nighters. The ensemble sang "My Alice Blue Gown," "You Are My Sunshine" and "Chattanooga Choo Choo." Solist Emmie sang "Always," and Barbara warbled "Don't Be What You Ain't." Jackie and Barbara danced the jitterbug in quickened tempo and the girls wore costumes to suit the stunts they performed for their enchanted audience of adults and children.

The "Patriotic Big Four" as the girls style themselves, canvassed the neighborhood and collected 75 extra magazines to take to the Red Cross Recreational Center at Lawson Hospital.

Just as soon as school bells ring out the summons to again take up reading, riting' and 'rithmetick, Betty Ray and Jackie will enter the freshman class at North Fulton High school. Barbara enrolls at Sacred Heart, and Emmie continues her studies at Morning-side school.

Coal Probers To File Report

A committee of state officials, home from an inspection of Dade county coal area, apparently will recommend a further study of the possibilities of the state purchasing this land and using prison labor to mine the coal.

Members of the delegation were impressed with the coal they saw being mined in Dade county, and with the reports of coal deposits in that area. Some felt that technical experts should be sent to inspect the area before the state made definite plans.

A formal report, containing their recommendations, will be given to Gov. Arnall by the committee within a few days. The committee includes: Atty. Gen. Grady Head, Purchasing Agent Willie Pate, Highway Engineer George McDonald, Geologist Garland Peyton and Warden Joseph Sanford of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

More Robots Follow London's Worst Raid

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Nazis renewed their flying bomb salvoes against London and southern England tonight after a late afternoon respite from a damaging 14-hour blasting that was a record for length and severity.

Night explosions increased the casualties and destruction as rescuers still dug for victims among the rubble of some of the dwellings, business houses and the 10 hospitals hit in the day's barrage of horror missiles.

The new barrage came despite three heavy bomber attacks against launching ramps Wednesday night and bombings of three robot supply depots in France today.

The 14-hour attack had eased off late in the day after a blanket of low clouds lifted from Dover strait and gave antiaircraft gunners better shooting at the missiles.

The gunners, including some Americans, were busy from midnight on and got many robots on the wing, but many got through. Before the clutter could be cleared up by extremely efficient civilian defense workers, new patients were being admitted. At another hospital two babies were born just as a bomb fell.

One of the robot victims was Dr. Hubert Hall, 87, author of historical works and former literary director of the Royal Historical Society. In giving official figures on civilian air raid casualties from the beginning of the war through the first half of 1944, government revealed that the robot bombs have been killing more persons than ordinary aerial bombs did at their worst.

Air Scouts 'Smartest Bunch,' Municipal Field Head Raves

The Air Scouts, meeting at the Atlanta Army Air Base for a four-day program of preflight training, have Jack Gray, manager of the municipal airport, completely baffled. "They're the smartest bunch of boys I've ever seen," declares Gray of the 65 Scouts attending the air meet being sponsored jointly by the airport area Kiwanis Club and the Atlanta Army Air Base.

"Do you know what one of them asked me the first day he was here?" queried Gray.

"Well, he is just a snip of a boy, can't be over 15. After a few preliminary words of greeting, this kid said, 'Mr. Gray, there's something that's been worrying me an awful lot. What is it that makes a plane disintegrate after it reaches its terminal velocity, assuming, of course, that there is no fault in its structure?'"

"I was dumfounded for a moment," continued Gray. "I answered the question for him but I still can't get over a question like that coming out of the mouth of a small boy like that. These Air Scouts really amaze me!"

These "brilliant" Scouts, representing North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida, are participating in an intensive program of preflight instruction. They are billeted in regular quarters of the Army Air Corps at the base. In fact, they are undergoing a rigid military life in addition to the classes.

Registration and assignment to quarters was taken care of Wednesday, with a full schedule of classes beginning yesterday. In addition to physical fitness class and regulation barracks inspection, the Scouts attended classes in airport operations, meteorology, airway traffic control, and communications.

MAJOR CRIMES UNDER CONTROL IN JULY; PETTY ONES WORRISOME

Major crime was well under control in Atlanta during July, a survey of crime report records show, but juvenile delinquency and petty crimes are still giving the police a headache.

Six murders were committed during the month, while homicide officers cleared eight. Five attack cases were reported, three were proven false, and police cleared the remaining two with two arrests.

Property loss for the month was listed at $89,350, with $62,667—or more than 70 per cent—recovered. Ninety-five autos were reported stolen, and local officers recovered 98 stolen machines.

Atlanta police also recovered $15,300 worth of cars which were stolen in other cities.

A total of 353 larcenies was listed for the month, with most of the cases involving items listed at less than $50 in value.

Burglaries reached 177 for the month, with officers arresting 26 persons and clearing 51 cases. Total crimes reported were 692, with 164 arrests and 171 cases marked cleared.

Medics Hope To Destroy Malaria With Atabrine

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—It should be possible to eliminate malaria from every civilized country after the war by means of the synthetic quinine substitute, Atabrine (Atabrine), and by experience gained in treating the armed forces, the Journal of the American Medical Association said today.

The Journal made this comment on an official report that quinine "has proved to have all the anti-malarial properties ascribed to quinine" and that large-scale production of quinine "is not now considered a matter of importance" for treating Army and Navy personnel.

The postwar world, with the knowledge now available about this drug and on methods of malarial prevention, should be able to eliminate malaria from every civilized nation," the journal said.

Pelley Defense Contests Search Warrant Validity

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Defense counsel in the mass sedition conspiracy trial today challenged the validity of the search warrant under which the Federal Bureau of Investigation seized documents being featured in government evidence.

The exhibits were seized by the FBI in 1942 in a raid on the plant of the Fellowship Press, operated by William Dudley Pelley at Noblesville, Ind. Pelley is former leader of the Silver Shirts and now a defendant.

During cross-examination of Bliss Morton, who led the FBI raid, defense counsel sought to force the government to produce the search warrant under which Morton said he made the seizure. The court upheld the refusal to produce the warrant.

Pelley's attorney protested that, the confiscation of the papers was a violation of rights under the constitutional search and seizure clause.

OLD HOUSE'S MAP LEADS TO $6,000

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 3. (AP)—A map-guided treasure hunt in an old house occupied for many years by elderly bachelor brothers, now dead, has yielded $6,000 in gold and silver coins, and an estimated $7,000 to $10,000 more is believed buried in the premises, the Oregonian said today.

The attorney handling the estate is maintaining secrecy to protect the premises from volunteer treasure hunters, the newspaper said.

Searchers are working from maps left by the owners, one of whom died two years ago and the other last month, the paper continued.

Approximately $2,000 in silver coins was found in money bags in bureau drawers, $300 in silver in an old unlocked safe, and $276 in an old pair of trousers hanging in a closet.

An old stove in the basement contained a glass jar holding $3,000, mostly in $20 gold pieces.

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

George VI Back Home After Battlefront Tour

LONDON, Aug. 3. (AP)—King George VI returned to Britain by air today after a 10-day absence during which he toured the battlefields in Italy and reviewed various Allied forces there.
